PREFACE.

On the 6th December, 1847, I was honored with the orders of the Government of India appointing me an Extra Assistant to the Resident at Lucnow, as a temporary measure, for the purpose of cataloguing the extensive collection of works in Arabic and Persian literature in the king of Oudh's libraries.

Among my instructions was the following, "you need not confine yourself exclusively to the king's libraries, but you can undertake, as opportunity offers, the examination of some of the best private collections in that city, which are supposed to contain many rare and valuable works."

I arrived at Lucnow on the 3rd of March, 1848, and I left it on the 1st January, 1850. One month I had other duties to perform and near three months I was sick. The time which I devoted to cataloguing was about eighteen months. During this time I examined about 10,000 volumes. Very many of them were duplicates; but as no kind of arrangement exists, particularly in the Tópkhánah library, and as it is impossible to recollect whether or not a note has been taken of a book, duplicates took just as much time as new works. There are also many defective volumes which after much search for a name, date, or title, I was obliged to throw away. Supposing then that I had worked every day ten hours (and to do this day after day in a tropical climate is a physical impossibility) I could have devoted only half an hour to the examination of each volume.

I was assisted in my labour by 'alyy Akbar of Pánypat. He was a pupil of the Dilly College, and had not yet completed his course of study when I took him to Lucnow. I did not expect more of him than that he would copy for me such passages as I might mark; but he soon entered into the spirit of the work and was of very great service. Some time after my return from Lucnow I recommended him to the late Lieut. Governor of the North Western Provinces and he appointed him first Professor of Arabic of the Agra College. He died in that post in 1852, about thirty years of age. I take this opportunity publicly to record my sense of gratitude and esteem to this talented industrious and conscientious young man.

The Royal Library at Lucnow was originally kept in the old Palace (Puráná Dawlat-kháanah), which stands on an eminence between the Rúmy Darwázah and the iron bridge over the Gumpty and is now nearly in ruins. It contained the whole of the literary treasures of *H*áfitz Ra*h*mat Khán, and was subsequently much enriched more particularly by Gházi*y* aldyn *H*aydar.

At present it is divided into three collections. The valuable literary works upwards of three thousand volumes are preserved in a garden house of the Móty Ma*h*all Palace, and elegant books are kept close to the Fara*h*-bakhsh Palace in which the late king used to reside. This collection contains about one thousand volumes or less, and formed the private library of His late Majesty. The Dáróghah thereof superintends the other librarians. Books, in these two collections were kept in shelves, when I was at Lucnow, and were in tolerably good order, but lately, I hear, they have been given up to pillage.

The third collection is in the Tópkhánah or arsenal, which is close to the house of the British Resident. The arsenal is an extensive building including a large square which is filled with guns. Three sides of the building are devoted to military stores, and in the northern wing up-stairs is the library. The books are kept in about forty dilapidated boxes—camel trunks—which are at the same time tenanted by prolific families of rats; and any admirer of oriental lore who may have an opportunity to visit this collection will do well to poke with a stick into the boxes, before he puts his hand into them, unless he be a zoologist as well as an orientalist. At the end of the hall there are bags full of books completely destroyed by white ants. Even new books have not been spared by these destructive insects, nearly the whole edition of the Táj alloghát has been destroyed, and most of the remaining copies of the Haft Qulzum have had the same fate. The number of volumes in this collection is very great, and among them are some Pashtú works written with great care for the brave and learned Rohilla chief.

It is unfortunately the habit of the king's people merely to count the volumes, and to make the librarian responsible for the numbers not diminishing. The consequence is that many good books have been abstracted and bad ones put in their place. There are at least one hundred copies of the Gulistán and as many of Yúsof ú Zalykhá in the Tópkhánah, which apparently fill the places of more valuable works. I have heard that a late librarian sold in one week eleven hundred Rupees worth of books to provide funds for the marriage of his daughter.

In making this statement I beg to say that I have every reason to speak highly of the present Dáróghahs or librarians, and that I consider them perfectly honest. They are very civil men, more particularly one of the two librarians in the Tópkhánah, and it is much to be regretted that men like him had not charge of the library from the commencement.

Though not strictly connected with the subject, the reader will perhaps be glad to obtain some information regarding the Lucnow printing offices.

Gháziy aldyn *H*aydar founded a typography at great expense, and one of the works—the Haft Qulzum—which issued from it has attained a greater celebrity in Europe than it enjoys in India.

Besides this Dictionary, the following books have been printed in types at Lucnow:

المناقب الحيدرية, The praise of Gháziy aldyn *H*aydar, in Arabic, by A*h*mad Shirwány, 1235, small folio, 200 pp.

محامد حيدري, a similar work in Persian prose and verse, by Akhtar (see page 599 infrà), 1238, small folio, 288 pp.

گلدسته محبت. An account in Persian prose and verse of the meeting of Lord Hastings and Gháziy aldyn *H*aydar, by Akhtar, 1239, 8vo. 131 pp.

Panjsúrah or the five Súrahs of the Qorân usually repeated in prayers, s. a. 4to. printed in the form of a Toghrá.

Táj alloghát, an Arabic Dictionary explained in Persian, in seven volumes, large folio, only four volumes have been printed in types, s. a. the remaining three have been lithographed, Vol. I. 725 pp.; Vol. II. 624 pp.; Vol. III. 252 pp.; Vol. IV. 176 pp.; Vol. V. 594 pp.; Vol. VI. 408 pp.; Vol. VII. 138 pp.

About the year 1830, Mr. Archer who had established a lithographic printing office at Cawnpore came at the request of Naçyr aldyn *H*aydar to Lucnow with his press and entered his service.

The first book lithographed at Lucnow is the بهجة مرضية being a commentary on the Alfyyah, by Soyú*t*y, 1247, 8vo. 247 pp.

When I was at Lucnow there were twelve private lithographic presses in that city. Those of *H*ájy Mo*h*ammad *H*osayn and Moçtafà Khán were by far the best. Some editions of the former are particularly correct. In 1849, Kamál aldyn *H*aydar, Munshiy to the observatory, wishing to ingratiate himself at court, wrote a history of the Royal family of Oudh. Two passages happened to displease His Majesty, and instantly the observatory was abolished and printing was forbidden at Lucnow, lest this objectionable production might be published. The proprietor of the Masy*h*áy press went on the suggestion of the author of these pages to Cawnpore, and most other printers followed him. Some however, among them Moçtafà Khán, managed to keep at the same time an establishment at Lucnow. As they usually put, on the title page only, the name of the press and not of the place, it is not always possible to determine whether a book was printed at Lucnow or Cawnpore if it has been published after the Exodus.

The number of works lithographed at Lucnow and Cawnpore may amount to about seven hundred. Some of them have gone through more than ten editions. The books most in request are of course school books and such other dialectical and religious tracts as every Mawlawy reads or pretends to read. But we already observe symptoms that the press is enlarging the narrow cycle of learning, and, what is more important, that it extends education to all classes and even to ladies. Twenty years ago verses of the Qorân were repeated as prayers and charms, and even the whole book was learned by heart, but without being understood, and the Sunnah was almost unknown; in our days people are gradually beginning to study the book, and I shall have to describe several commentaries on it in Arabic, Persian and Hindústány which have lately been published. The study of the traditions or Sunnah is making even more rapid progress than that of the Qorân. Not only have the principal collections been published in Arabic but we have Persian and Hindústány translations of the Mishkàt and Mashàriq alanwár which have gone through more than one edition. After the Musalmáns had, several centuries ago, entirely lost sight of the original idea of their religion, they are now beginning to make their sacred books intelligible to all. This must lead to results, analogous to those which the translation and study of the Bible produced in Europe.

One of the most remarkable results of the progress of printing is the rapid increase of periodical and light literature. India is the only country in the old continent in which the press is entirely free, and there is hardly a town in the upper provinces in which there are not several newspapers published. Of late, several tales and religious works written expressly for ladies have been printed, and seem to meet with a rapid sale. Though the new literature which is rising has not much intrinsic value, things are progressing as rapidly and as healthily as they did in Europe, when the art of printing came first into vogue. The tendency is oriental and Mohammadan, but already a spirit of liberality is manifesting itself, which is the natural result of progress from school-learning and court refinement to a general civilization.

It was originally intended that this volume should comprise eight chapters, the fourth of which was to contain Persian grammars, dictionaries, letters and letter-forms and works in elegant prose, the fifth, the corresponding Hindústány books, and the last three, translations from the Sanskrit and Hindy into Persian or Hindústány, and Turky (Chaghatáy) and Pushtú books. It was further intended to add an appendix containing omissions and a table of the contents of Wálih, Khóshgú, the A'tishkadah, &c. and to conclude the volume with three indexes, one of proper names, one of book-titles, and one of initial lines. But before the third chapter had been put to press the compiler was obliged to apply for leave of absence on sick certificate for two years, and to content himself with publishing the book in its present form. Should it be continued, what is wanting in this volume will be added to the second; which in addition will contain the biographies and writings of Arabic lexicographers, grammarians, poets and elegant prose writers. The remaining volumes will be devoted to the sciences of the Musalmáns: in the third, for instance, will be described the biographies and works of Çúfies or mystical philosophers and theologists.

In transcribing oriental names and words into English, I have adopted the principle which is followed in transcribing from one European language into another. A Frenchman spells Brougham, Peel and Goethe, and not Broum, Pile and Gueuté and his readers, however erroneously they may pronounce these names, know what persons are meant. This is the object. Writing is a symbol for the eye, and pronunciation must be acquired by the ear. I have substituted for every Arabic and Persian letter a Roman letter, in some instances however, as I did not choose to have new types cast, it was unfortunately necessary to employ two Roman representatives for one oriental symbol, as ch= چ ; sh= ش ; zh= ژ ; dh= ض ; th= ث ; dz= ذ ; tz= ﻁ. The hamzah is rendered by a diæresis, alif where it is of any use at all, and the quiescent w, if preceded by an u, are represented by an accent; ی is always expressed by y and if it is a long vowel, the i which precedes it is omitted as "fy." For expressing the 'ayn an apostrophe (') is used, and with a view to impress upon the reader that in words like 'amr or 'ysà, 'ayn is the first and the vowel the second letter, I do not use a capital a or y.

BIOGRAPHIES OF PERSIAN AND URDU' POETS.

(1) لباب الالباب تصنيف محمد عوفي (P.)

THE marrow of the productions of intellect by Mo*h*ammad 'awfy. He tells us in folio 155 that he was in 600 at Nasá and met Majd aldyn the author of a Sháhanshán-námah, and we have from him besides this work, a collection of historical anecdotes جامع الحكايات which, it is stated in the preface thereto, he compiled in 625. It is therefore clear that he flourished towards the end of the sixth and in the beginning of the seventh century of the Hijrah, and wrote this book after the year 600. It would appear that he was a native of Marw which under the Seljúq Princes was the capital of Persia. In the seventh chapter is an account of his grandfather and of one of his maternal uncles, both of whom were according to Mr. B. Elliott's copy of Marw, but according to mine of Má-warán-lnahr. The book is dedicated to the Wazyr 'ayn almulk Abú-l-Makárim *H*osayn b. Radhyy aldawlah Abú Bakr Ash'ary. *H*ájy Khalyfah No. 2821, calls the author erroneously Mo*h*ammad *H*awfy.

This is the most ancient Tadzkirah that I have seen, and, if we believe the author, the first that has been compiled. As the title indicates, it is rather an anthology than a biographical work. It is divided into 12 chapters. The first four chapters treat on the meaning and origin of poetry and fill only 8 pages. The fifth and sixth chapters contain notices of Kings, Princes and Wazyrs who have written poetry, the former fills 32 and the latter 60 pages.

7th Chapter: Imáms and other eminent men who distinguished themselves by their poetical talents but were not poets by profession, 70 pages.

8th Chapter: (twelve) Poets of the courts of the Táhir, Layth and Samán families, 8 pages.

9th: Poets of the court of the Náçir family, (28 poets; 28 pages.)

10th: Poets who were patronized by the Seljúq princes to the end of the reign of Sultán Sa'yd, (39 poets; 92 pages.)

11th Chapter: Poets from the time of Sanjar (who died in A. H. 552) to the present reign.

12th Chapter: Poets at the court of the present sovereign.

A very full and learned notice of this work has been given by Mr. N. Bland, Journ. Royal As. Soc. London, Vol. IX. p. 112.

Beginning of the first chapter; بر عقلا عالم کون و فساد

The only copy which I have seen of this book is in a private collection. It is a 4to of 336 pp. 23 lines in a page. It is old, written in an elegant hand and tolerably correct; but of the preface two or three and at the end many pages are wanting. It ends with the first line of the biography of Nitzámy and is probably the same copy which has been used by the author of the Khiṣánah 'ámirah. Besides this only one copy is known to exist, it belongs to Mr. B. Elliott and has been described by Mr. Bland, loco cit.

(3) تذكرهٔ شعرا تصنيف دولتشاه (P)

Tadzkirah, i. e. Memoranda of poets by Dawlat-sháh b. 'alá aldawlah Bakhty-sháh. He completed this book in A. H. 892, and dedicated it to the poet and wazyr Myr 'alyy Shyr. It appears from the preface that Dawlat-sháh was fifty years of age when he commenced this labour.

The book is divided into a preface مقدمه which contains notices of nine Arabic poets and seven chapters, طبقات answering to the spheres of the seven planets, and a conclusion. Each chapter contains about twenty poets and the conclusion contains the lives of six contemporaries, among them are Jámy, 'alyy Shyr, A'çafy and Sohayly.

This is one of the best known and most useful Tadzkirahs. It contains valuable historical details besides the biography of poets. Ilahy p. 121, says on this book and its author "Dawlat-sháh: his tadzkirah contains 180 biographies and is very celebrated. Though he does not quote many good verses, the historical and biographical portion of his work is done in a masterly manner and shows much research, 'alyy Shyr informs us in his Tadzkirah that he is the cousin of Amyr Fayrúz Isfaráyiny, who was a distinguished man. The Takhalluç of Dawlat-sháh is 'aláyiy."

Initial line تحمیدی که شاهباز بلند-پرواز اندیشه بساحت

Copies are not frequent, yet there are five in the Moty Maḥall. The best is written in Naskhy, and has 626 pages of 17 lines. A beautifully written but incorrect copy is inscribed در طبقات هفتگانه تذکرهٔ شعراء عجم The preface differs from that of other copies and the book is defective, but in other respects it is a copy of Dawlat-sháh under a different title. There is also a copy in the As. Soc. B. No. 537. Hammer's Geschichte der schönen Redekünste Persiens may be considered a free translation of Dawlat-sháh. De Sacy has given a notice of this Tadzkirah in the Notices et Extraits. IV. pp. 220—272. Vullers has published the life of Háfiẓ from it, Giessen 1839, and J. H. Harington the Life of Sa'dy in his edition of the works of that poet, Calcutta, 1791.

(5) جواهر العجائب تصنيف فخري بن اميري (P.)

Gems of curiosities being a Tadzkirah of poetesses by Fakhry b. Amyry of Herát. The author informs us that with the intention to perform the pilgrimage to Makkah, he came during the reign of Sháh *T*ahmásb *H*osayny (reigned from 930 to 984) to Sind, the ruler of that country was then Mo*h*ammad 'ysà Tarkhán (died in 974,) and it would appear that he wrote this book at his Court. Ilahy who frequently quotes this book under the title of تذكرة النساء or "Biography of Ladies" gives the following notice of Fakhry: "Fakhry Herawy was a friend of Myr 'alyy Shyr. Some say this is the same Fakhry who has been mentioned in the preceding article." In the preceding article he says, "Sul*t*an Mo*h*ammad Amyry, whose takhalluç is Fakhry, was a distinguished man and lived to the time of Sháh *T*ahmásb. He praised this sovereign in his poems and he is the Translator of Amyr 'alyy Shyr's Tadzkirah called *Majális alnafáyis from Turky into Persian. He added notices of some poets of the second period. He is also the author of the Bostán alkhayál بستان الخیال which contains the matla's of the ghazals of various poets of his age."

* Myr 'alyy Shyr the author of the Majális completed it in 903 according to Hammer, and in 896 according to *H*ájy Khalyfah, and died in 906. The Chagatáy text is divided into eight parts Majális and contains 441 biographies. Baron von Hammer-Purgstall, who possesses a copy of it, has given a notice of the work and a list of the biographies in the catalogue of his library. W. Jahrb. Vol. 74, Anzbl. p. 11, 1836.

It will be observed that Fakhry and Amyry are one and the same person according to this passage, whereas according to the Tadzkirah under notice, Fakhry was the son of Amyry. In a note to p. 263 Ilahy says equally, that Fakhry Sultán Mo*h*ammad was a son of Amyry, that he translated the Majális alnafáyis and that he gave to the translation the title Latáyif námah. The author of the Kholáçah says of this work, "Among the works of Myr 'alyy Shyr is the Majális alnafáyis which he wrote in the Turky language. Mawláná Sul*t*án Mo*h*ammad Amyry has translated it into Persian and has added at the end one Majlis. This book contains an account of many poets and learned men who flourished from the reign of Sa'yd Sháhrokh to the time of Sháh Ismá'yl." It will be observed that according to this author the translator of the Majális was Amyry. This is probably correct, Amyry is the translator of the Majális, and a contemporary of Myr 'alyy Shyr, and his son Fakhry is the author of this Tadzkirah.

In the preface is the following chronogram خود را چو زخود بهر تو غائب دیدم تاریخ زهمه غم و مصائب دیدم I suspect there is a mistake in it and would propose to read the second miçra' تاریخ همه غم ز مصائب دیدم "As I saw myself absent from myself on account of you, in like manner I saw the date of all sorrow without misfortunes." This would make 1090—143=947.

(7) تحفهٔ سامي (P.)

The present of Sám being a biography of the contemporaneous poets of Persia, compiled by the Prince Sám Myrzá b. Sháh Ismá'yl in 957—Sháh Ismá'yl the father of the author was the founder of the Çafawy Dynasty. This book has been described by de Sacy, in the Notices et Extraits des MSS. Vol. IV. pp. 273—308.

It is divided into seven chapters مقالة. The first four contain notices of Princes, Nobles, Wazyrs and learned men who have occasionally written poetry, beginning with Sháh Ismá'yl, 184 pages.

5th Chapter. On professional poets and men distinguished by eloquence. It begins with Jámy, 162 pages.

6th. Tatars who have written Persian poetry.

(8) خلاصة الاشعار وزبدة الافكار تصنيف تقي الدين كاشاني (P.)

The butter of poems and the cream of conceits being a Tadzkirah of Persian poets by Taqyy aldyn Mohammad b. Sharaf aldyn 'alyy *H*osayny Dxikry. He was born at Káshán about A. H. 946. He is very particular in giving us the dates on which he completed various portions of his work. In 985 be completed in four volumes notices of the poets who had lived before his time and in 993 he added a volume containing biographies of contemporaneous poets after he had spent fourteen years on the completion of his work. A friend of his embodied this date in the following chronogram :

چون پنج كتاب تقي تذكره-سنج در مخزن جلد جا گرفت چون گنج
تا هر يكرا درست باشد تاريخ بر پنج كتاب تقي افزودم پنج

"When the five books of the Biographer Taqyy were deposited in volumes like a treasury I added to fix the date five to the five books of Taqyy." The letters of the Persian words for five books of Taqyy have the numerical value 988 and if you add five, you have the above date. After the completion of the work he made many additions and in 1016, he informs us, he found it necessary to publish a new edition in six volumes and the words ست مجلدات لازم i. e. six volumes are required give precisely the date of this new edition.

The book is divided into an introduction four chapters ركن and a conclusion خاتمة.

The introduction treats on the utility of the work and on mystical love. The author enters on the latter subject at great length.

1st Chapter. Fifty-four ancient poets beginning from the time of Sabaktegyn. They composed chiefly qaçydahs. The latest of them flourished in the eighth century.

2nd. Poets who excelled in the ghazal (Lyric poetry) and some of the later of that class of poets who composed chiefly qaçydahs. Forty-two poets, most of whom flourished in the eighth century but some at the beginning of the ninth.

3rd. Forty-nine modern poets most of whom wrote ghazals and were of the ninth century; some few of them are of the tenth century of the Hijrah.

4th. One hundred and one poets who flourished from the time of Sulṭán *H*osayn Mirzá to the time of the author.

The appendix خاتمه contains notices of contemporaneous poets, many of whom the author knew personally. They are divided into twelve chapters, according to the towns or provinces in which they were born. In the Second Edition an alphabetical list of poets is added, who sent to him specimens of their compositions after the book had been completed.

This work contains the fullest biographical details, the most copious and best chosen extracts, (seldom less than a thousand verses and in all 350,000 couplets,) the soundest critical and most exact and complete bibliographical remarks on the Persian poets; the author seems, in all instances, to have consulted their Dywans, and to have collected all the information respecting them he could, the only fault is that he dwells at too great a length on the love adventures of the subjects of his biography which are generally most disgusting. A very full account of this work has been given by Mr. Bland, Journ. As. Soc. London, Vol. IX. p. 126.

In the Moty Mahall library, two volumes, (the third and the last,) of the first edition are preserved. They were executed in A. H. 1004, and therefore before the second edition was made. They are in 4to., have 25 lines in a page, the writing is small but very correct, and there are two distiches in a line. The third volume, which contains the second chapter, has 860 pages, and the last, which contains the whole of the conclusion, has 750 pages. Mr. Hall of Benares possesses a copy of the first edition of the appendix, which was copied A. H. 993. It is a splendid MS. folio 622 pp. of 24 lines, two bayts in a line.

(10) نفایس المآثر تصنیف کامي مسمی بتذکرهٔ مآثر (P.)

Gems of distinguished actions being a biographical Dictionary of Persian poets by Mirzá 'alâ aldawlah Qazwyny whose Takhalluç is Kámy. Badáwny mentions him among the poets who flourished during Akbar's reign but gives no details of his life. It would however appear that he was alive when Badáwny wrote, in 1004. The title is a chronogram for the date when this compilation was begun, viz. 973; it was completed according to a Postscript in 979, but there occur much later dates in it.

It contains notices of about 350 poets in alphabetical order. Most of them flourished in India during the reign of Akbar, to whom the book is dedicated, or of his predecessors. The author used besides the tadzkirahs of Dawlat-sháh, 'alyy Shyr, &c. several historical and geographical works which enabled him in many instances to state the date, and he made it a point to give details on the geography of places which he mentions.

Moty Maḥall 4to. 232 pages of 27 lines Naskhy, the copy is old but it bears no date, a former owner wrote his name in it in 1071. Correct though not without errors.

I allowed the opportunity to escape for making an abstract of the work; I can therefore insert here merely an index to it and the most important dates. It appears that the author of the Á́tishkadah has used it and I therefore some times refer to this work for farther details.

(11) خزينهٔ گنج الهي (P.)

Iláhy's treasury, containing the biography of about four hundred Persian poets alphabetically arranged by 'imád aldyn Maḥmúd Iláhy *H*osayny. The title of the book and name of the author occur in the life of *A*dzory. Iláhy is mentioned by *T*áhir Naçrábády and in the A'tishkadah p. 341 and it is stated there that he was a native of Asadábád in Hamadán and that he spent a great part of his life in India and died there. Sarkhúsh says that he came to India under Jahángyr, but neither of these authors mention his name. According to the Hamyshah Bahár his name was Myr Çadr aldyn Moḥammad 'alyy, he was the son of the physician Moḥammad Shyrázy and was a native of Hamadán, he came to India in A. H. 1010, and found great favor at the Court of the emperor and on account of his medical skill he received the title of the Messiah of the age. Either this statement refers to a different individual or it is full of errors. Iláhy himself informs us in p. 112 that he went in 1010 to Ispahán for the sake of prosecuting his studies and stayed there three and a half years; and in page 365 he says that in 1015 he went to Shyráz for the same purpose, and in one passage he mentions that he was at Thanéser which is one hundred miles N. W. from Dilly. Siráj mentions Myr Iláhy Hamadány and places his death in 1064. His poems are much admired and he left a considerable Dywán.

The author mentions in this Tadzkirah chiefly poets of the 9th and 10th centuries of the Hijrah whom he calls شعراى متوسطين. He also mentions some of the eighth century on the authority of Dawlat-sháh. The authorities which he uses are principally the Sámy (see p. 12 supra), Myr 'alyy Shyr (see p. 9), and Taqyy Aw*h*ady (see below), and Fakhry (p. 9). He also quotes the Tadzkirah of Khwájah Amyn aldyn *H*asan Nithâry نثاري (in one passage he writes نزاري) but gives us no information respecting him, except that he wrote his work in Máwará-lnahr. In Tadzkirahs five poets of this takhalluç are mentioned, 1. Nithâry Túny who died in 971 or 968 and is the author of a Dywán of Ghazals and Qaçydah and of a Mathnawy in the same measure as the King and the Beggar; 2. Nithâry Tabryzy; 3. Nithâry Qazwyny; 4. Nithâry Bokhâry, his name is Bahâ aldyn *H*asan and he is most likely the author of the Tadzkirah. 5. Nithâry Astrábády. He also quotes the مقالة الابرار which is a biography of Çúfies and the Majális of 'abd al-Qádir Marághahï. The book has no preface and has never been completed and it is therefore perfectly unknown.

Naçrábády's biographies of poets. The full name of the author was Mo*h*ammad *T*áhir, he was born at Naçrábád which is in the district of Ispahán in 1025 or 1027. He lost his father before he was twenty years of age and gave himself for some time up to pleasure, but poverty, which was the more painful because some of his ancestors had been so wealthy as to be able to build schools and colleges, brought him to his senses, and henceforth he led a pious life. (13) كلمات الشعرا تصنيف سرخوش (P.)

The words of the poets, by Mirzá Mo*h*ammad Afdhal whose takhalluç is Sar-khúsh and who was generally called Chélá. The title of the book is a chronogram for 1093, the date when he commenced to compile it. The author informs us that he and his father had been in the service of 'álamgyr, and that during his youth he was anxious to acquire rank and wealth, but at the time when he wrote this book he lived in retirement at Dilly. He was a good poet and had the good fortune to become acquainted with almost all men of talent of his age. He died in A. H. 1125 or 1126, or 1127 at the advanced age of seventy-six years and left four Mathnawies, *H*osn ó 'ishq, Núre 'alyy, Sáqiy-námah and Sháh-námahë Mo*h*ammad 'atzam-sháh.

He says in the preface that almost all Tadzkirahs were universal, containing the notices of the poets of all ages, and that most of them end with the reign of Akbar. He had therefore undertaken to compile an account in alphabetical order of the poets (of India) of the reigns of Jahángyr and 'álamgyr most of whom he knew personally. It contains near two hundred very short biographies interspersed with verses of the compiler. The book is esteemed in India on account of the elegant extracts it contains. At the end he has added five or six pages of chronograms, a description of poetry in which he seems to have excelled.

The authorities which he used are Gulshane Fi*t*rat by Myr Mo'izz aldyn Mo*h*ammad Músawy Khán Fitrat, the Albúm بیاض of Mirzá Mo*h*ammad 'alyy Máhir and that of Myr Mo*h*ammad Zamán Rásikh. These three poets were contemporaries and friends of Sar-khúsh. Músawy had at first the takhalluç Fi*t*rat فطرت and then he chose that of Músawy, he was born in Persia in 1050, and came to India where he was much esteemed for his talents as a poet and as a critic, and died in A. H. 1101. Máhir was a friend of Qodsy and Kalym and the teacher of Sar-khúsh, he died in A. H. 1089. Rásikh died in 1107.

(17) سفینهٔ خوشگو or سفینهٔ خوشگوي (P.)

The ark of Khúshgú being a history of Persian poets. The author informs us, that the title is a chronogram expressing the date, when he began the compilation of this work, viz. 1137. He was ten years engaged in compiling it, and consequently the date when he completed it, is contained in سفینهٔ خوشگوي, 1147. But before he could take a fair copy and publish the work he was called away by the invasion of Nádir Sháh to Kót Kangra with the army, and he remained seven or eight years in the Panjáb. In 1155 he returned to Dilly, and gave his work to his master Arzú for correction, he made some glosses and added a preface which in this copy fills only two pages. Though the author gives us these particulars of his life, he does not mention his own name.

From Arzú's preface it would appear that Khúshgú (eloquent) was his takhulluç. In the Tadzkirah of Hayrat it is stated that the name of Khúshgú was Bindraban, that he was a native of Benares and of the Bania caste, and that he was the author of a Tadzkirah. In the postscript to the second volume of this work, which was executed at Dilly in 1191, it is said تواريخ الشعراء در احوال شاعران تصنيف مولانا نور الدين محمد ظهوري تخلص. "History of the poets, that is to say, notices of poets by Mawláná Núr aldyn Mohammad whose takhalluç is Tzohúry." This is certainly wrong, for Núr aldyn Tzohúry lived a century before this book was written, and no biographer mentions a Tadzkirah of his. Sir G. Ouseley, Not. of Pers. Poets p. 172, mentions this Tadzkirah, and ascribes it to Bindraban Khúshgú, but he makes him erroneously a contemporary of Akbar.

The book is divided into three volumes. The first contains the ancient poets in chronological order, in all 362 notices. The second part begins with Jámy and ends with Mirzá Ahmad Bég, whose date is not mentioned, but immediately before him is a more celebrated name that of Myrzá Majdzúb who composed the Mathnawy Sháhráhë Naját in 1006. This part contains 545 biographies. The third part is by far the most important, inasmuch as it contains contemporary poets, but unfortunately I have never seen a copy of it.

Beginning of the first vol. هرچند كه از عين و سوا ميگويم

Beginning of the second vol. الحمد لله والمنة كه بتوفيقه از تاليف دفتر اول.

The first two volumes are in my private collection, the first vol. has about 600 pp. the second 318, 17 lines in a page and three miçra's in a line, copied in A. H. 1191 at Dilly. The first volume I picked up at Lucnow, and for the second I am indebted to the kindness of my friend Hall. It is not unlikely that Sir G. Ouseley had the third volume of the same copy. I shall probably give an abstract of some of the contents of this book and of Wáhib's Tadzkirah in the appendix.

(18) رياض الشعراء تصنيف علي قليخان واله داغستاني (P.)

Gardens of poets by 'alyy Quly Khán Dághistány whose takhalluç is Wálih, and the book is therefore usually called the Tadzkirah of Wálih. He was born at Ispahán in 1124. Whilst he was pursuing his studies he fell in love with his cousin Khadyjah Sultán, but his union with her was prevented by "revolution of fortune and the breaking out of the Afghán invasion." This romantic attachment has become the theme of a Mathnawy. In 1147, he came to India where he composed this work in 1161, and died in 1170. In the *A*tishkadah this book is called the Tadzkirah of 'alyy Quly Legzy.

This is an universal biographical dictionary of Persian poets, and contains about 2500 articles. The biographical notices are short, but generally speaking correct, and he usually gives a sufficient number of specimens from their compositions. In India this Tadzkirah is more esteemed than any other.

(19) مجمع النفائس تصنيف سراج الدين علي خان آرزو (P.)

Collection of preciosities by Siráj aldyn 'alyy Khán A'rzú, who completed this work in 1164. He was born in 1101 either at Agra or Gwályár, but brought up in the former city. According to some, his forefathers were descended from Chirágh Dilly a Saint, and according to others from Mo*h*ammad Gwályáry equally a Saint. Some authors unite these two statements by saying that his father *H*osám aldyn H*osám* was descended from Kamál aldyn a nephew of the former Saint, and his mother from the latter. For some time he had an office of some importance at Gwályár. In A. H. 1132 he came to Dilly and met in 1147 the poet *H*azyn who had just come from Persia to this country. The jealousy between the two poets induced A'rzú to write a treatise entitled تنبيه الغافلين in which he points out the errors in *H*azyn's poems. After the fall of Dilly, A'rzú went to Lucnow, where he died in A. H. 1169. He compiled this work in 1164.

Most of his writings will be described under their respective heads they are:

موهبت عظمى The great present being a treatise on rhetoric.
عطيه كبرى The copious gift being a treatise on eloquence.
سراج اللغة (اللغات) A Persian Dictionary like the Burhány Qáti'.
خيابان A commentary on the Gulistán.
چراغ هدايت A dictionary of the poetical expressions used by the poets of his time. This is probably identical with the اصطلاحات الشعرا
شرح سكندر نامه A commentary on the Sikandar-námah.
شرح قصايد عرفي A commentary on the Qaçydahs of 'orfy.
غرائب اللغات A vocabulary of Hindee words explained in Persian.
جواب اعتراضات منير Answer to Monyr's critic of Qoday's poetry.
شرح مختصر المعاني Glosses to Taftazány's shorter commentary on the third chapter of the Talkhyç which treats on Rhetoric.
شرح گلكشني ميرنجات A commentary on Myr Naját's Gulgashty.
كليات A large collection of his own Persian poetry.

The author says in the preface that his original intention was to collect an anthology سفينه, but subsequently it occurred to him that it would enhance the value of the collection if it contained also short biographical notices, and he therefore altered the original plan of his work, yet he paid much less attention to the biographies than to the extracts, and he therefore hopes that the readers will not be too severe on him if they discover faults. The book contains 1419 biographies, but they are very meagre. He used the Tadzkirahs of Awḥady, Naçrabády, Sar-khúsh and Sámy. Beginning

Mr. Hall has a good copy of the second-half of it, and a well made abridgement of the whole, which is written in the shape of an album.

(20) تذکرهٔ حسینی تصنیف حسین دوست سنبهلی (P.)

The Tadzkirah of *H*osayny. This is the takhulluç of *H*osayn Dóst b. Abú *T*álib of Sambhal. He states in the preface that he came to Dilly to prosecute his studies, and having obtained a very intimate acquaintance with Persian poetry, he was requested by his friends to compile a Tadzkirah. I have not succeeded in finding an account of the author, but it appears from his book that he wrote after the death of Moḥammad Sháh who died in 1161, but before the death of Árzú who died in A. H. 1169.

The book contains, in alphabetical order, a short account of saints beginning with 'alyy, Abú Bakr and 'omar, and of ancient and modern poets, with short extracts from their works. It may contain about 200 biographies which are filled with anecdotes, some of which are not very edifying.

The Life of Shaikh Moḥammad 'alyy H*azyn* d. 1180, written by himself.

(23) يد بيضا تصنيف غلام علي آزاد (P.)

The miracle-working hand being a biography of Persian poets by Myr Gholám 'alyy whose takhalluç was *A*zád (independent), he was born in A. H. 1116 at Belgrám in Oudh, and hence he is called Belgrámy, and he derived his origin from the Imám Zayn 'ábidyn a descendant of *H*osayn and his ancestors, had resided in Wási*t* and hence he is also called *H*osayny Wási*t*y. In A. H. 1134 he went to Dilly to prosecute his studies and he returned after two years to his home. In 1142 he made his second journey and proceeded through Láhór and Multán to Sywistán. In A. H. 1147 he visited Agra and Ilahábád to meet his father. In 1150 he set out for the pilgrimage to the Ka'bah and remained two years in Arabia to prosecute his studies. On his return to India he remained for some time at Awrangábád. He died about 1200. (See Bland, Journ. As. Soc. of London IX. p. 151.)

All his works which he mentions in the Khazánah 'ámirah, will be described under their respective heads.

He informs us that he originally compiled this book in Sywistán in Sind and that it received a great circulation. In 1148 after his return to his native country he made this new much-improved edition. It is an universal Tadzkirah alphabetically arranged, and contains 532 biographies. An introduction of four pages contains some trite remarks on the origin of Persian poetry.

marginal notes written by a former owner, who also owned the copy of Arzú's Tadzkirah mentioned above, in that copy he also wrote some notes and the date when he purchased it, viz. 1193.

The cypress of Azád or the independent cypress. Azád, independent, is the usual epithet of the cypress, because it disdains to bear fruit. This is another Tadzkirah by the same author compiled in 1165 or 1166. He divides in it the poets into Persian and Indian.

(25) خزانهٔ عامره تصنيف غلام علي آزاد (P.)

The rich treasury being a biographical dictionary of Persian poets by the same author as the preceding two works, who compiled this in 1176.

It contains one hundred and six biographies in alphabetical order, and presents such a mixture of names of celebrated poets of ancient and modern times and powerful Nawábs who were alive when he wrote, that his chief object in compiling it, seems to have been to flatter the vanity of his patrons. He complains of the barrenness of other Tadzkirahs, and it must be allowed that he has collected more details regarding the life of the poets he mentions, than most other biographers, and he sometimes explains their verses, but the chief merit of the book consists in his giving us a very full list of the sources at his disposal. This list has been made good use of by Mr. Bland in his learned memoir on the earliest Persian biography of poets. All the works occurring in it have already been described, except the following:

1. Haft Iqlym compiled by Myrzá Amyn in A. H. 1002 (see chap. on Geogr. and Hist. infrà).

2. Badáwny (see Sir H. Elliot's Indian Hist. and p. 55 suprà).

3. Majma' al-fodhalá or assemblage of distinguished men, a Tadzkirah from the beginning of poetry to the reign of Akbar by Mollá Baqáyiy. He may be identical with Baqáyiy of Qomm see p. 56 suprà.

4. *H*ayát alsho'ará, life of poets, a special Tadzkirah of the poets who flourished from Bahádur Sháh (succeeded to the throne in A. H. 1118) to Mo*h*ammad Sháh (succeeded in 1131) by Mo*h*ammad 'alyy Khán Matyn of Kashmyr, see page 159 infrà.

6. Safynahë By-khabar the Ark of By-khabar compiled in 1141. The author's name is 'atzmat Allah b. Lu*t*f Allah *H*osayny Wási*t*y Belgrámy By-khabar. He was a mystical poet and died at Dilly in 1142.

7—8. صبح صادق the Dawn of morning and the Tadzkirah of Mollá Qáti'y. I can find no account of these two books and their authors. It is likely that there is a notice of them in the Sarwe *A*zád.

9. The Tadzkirah of Nátzim Tabryzy, see pp. 103 and 104 suprà.

10. مردم دیدہ by Sháh 'abd al-*H*akym of Láhór whose takhalluç was *H*ákim see p. 155 infrà, the Tadzkirah was compiled at Awrangábád in 1175. It contains an account of those poets with whom the author was acquainted.

11. تذکرۂ بی نظیر the Tadzkirah without equal, (or perhaps the Tadzkirah of By-Natzyr) by Myr 'abd al-Wahháb Dawlatábády who compiled it according to the notes of the Khazánah which I have taken from the Lucnow copy in 1172, and according to Mr. Bland in 1178. Bland adds on the authority of *A*zád "and of which year the name forms the date" In the copy of the Asiatic Society the book is omitted but the words وهمین اسم تاریخ تالیف ان است occur in it. The words تذکرۂ بینظیر form no such date and there must therefore be some mistake in Ázád. The only manner in which I can obtain the date of 1172, is by changing the title into تذکرت الشعرای بینظیر. I dare say this is the correct reading.

In order to complete this list, I add the names of six Tadzkirahs from Mr. Bland's Memoir above referred to.

1. التخاب تذکرات الشعرا. Extracts from Tadzkirahs, compiled by an anonymous author in 1172. It contains one hundred and fifty short biographies of poets in alphabetical order with specimens of their verses. A copy of this book is in the India House, No. 47, 154 pp. of 15 lines.

2. خلاصة الکلام and صحف ابراهیم see No. 45 infrà.

3. تذکرۂ الشعرا لبابا شاہ The Tadzkirah of Bábá Sháh, mentioned by *H*ájy Khalyfah who wrote in 1062. Mr. Bland p. 168 supposes that Bábá Sháh is identical with Sháh Shubly, who was a contemporary of Taqyy Awḥady and skilled in versification, he wrote a Mathnawy in the measure of the Toḥfat al'iráqayn and a Tadzkirah. But the author may be identical with the calligraph Bábá Sháh of Ispahán who flourished, it would appear from Khúshgú, about the same time as *H*akym Dawáyiy who died in 1004, see also p. 28 suprà No. 318.

4. لطائف الخیال by Moḥammad Çáliḥ who completed the work in 1104. This is a mere anthology and contains no biographies, the extracts are alphabetically arranged according to the last letter of the rhymes like Dywáns.

5. گل رعنا The Beautiful Rose by Lachmy Naráyan, who we are informed by Mr. Erskine, flourished towards the end of the last or beginning of this century of our era.

6. بیاض باطنی quoted in the Biyádh of 'alyy Ibráhym Khán Khalyl.

Moty Maḥall 224 pp. 15 lines, written in a good hand but not very correct. As. Soc. Beng. No. 366, 844 pp. 14 lines, very incorrect.

(26) جنگ رنگانگ تصنیف وارسته (P.)

The beautiful anthology by Wárastah of Láhór who was still alive in 1180. In this collection, the extracts are arranged according to matters, and divided under about 720 heads, under each head are the verses of all the poets who have written on it; thus under Chirágh you find an infinite number of descriptions of and allusions to, a lamp. It contains no biographies.

(29) دیوان منتخب تصنیف سراج (P.)

A Dywán of selections by Siráj aldyn *H*osayny of Awrangabád whose takhalluç is Siráj. The author informs us in the preface, that he had from the age of twelve a great predilection for mysticism and poetry, and he therefore placed himself under the tuition of Burhán aldyn Gharyb, and subsequently in 1160 under that of 'abd al-Raḥmán Chishty. During this period he used to give vent to his feelings in poetical effusions in Rékhtah, which were collected by 'abd al-Rasúl Khán and formed a Dywán of 5000 verses. Subsequently he gave up composing poetry, and devoted his time to collecting and studying the works of ancient and modern masters. But finding that he had great difficulty in moving his library in travelling, he made selections from them, and arranged them alphabetically according to the names of the poets. In this manner this work grew up which he completed in 1169.

It contains extracts from no less than 680 poets. Wherever the author knows the date of the demise of a poet, he mentions it, but he gives no other biographical details. The arrangement is not very clear, he goes through the alphabet at least ten times.

(30) باغ معانی (P.)

The Garden of Meaning being a biography of Persian poets, apparently consisting of three or four large folio Volumes of which I have seen only the second. The author's name is not mentioned in it, it may be by 'alyy Ibráhym Khán, see No. 45 infra.

This Volume contains the third, fourth and fifth parts جمن. The preceding two parts may treat on quite different subjects. In the third part are short biographies of about 157 men, who distinguished themselves through their poetical talents in alphabetical order. The latest whom I found among them is Sháh 'álam, who it appears was on the throne of Dilly when the book was written (reign 1173—1201.) The title is probably a chronogram for 1174.

The fourth part comprises the lives of about 226 Wazyrs and Nobles, who have written poetry.

The fifth contains notices of about 322 professional poets who flourished from the time of Hárún al-Rashyd to A. H. 800 equally in alphabetical order.

A Tadzkirah of the poets of the Carnatic by the Nawáb Siráj aldawlah Mohammad Ghawth Khán, whose takhalluç is A'tzam. He opens the book with a short autobiography, from which it appears that he was born in A. H. 1230, and compiled this book in 1258.

This is an abstract of the Tadzkirah of Ráyiq which has the title گلدستهٔ کرناٹک. Ráyiq is the takhalluç of Gholám 'alyy Músà whose title was *H*akym Báqir Ho- sayn Khán. He died in 1248. The Çubhe Watn contains in alphabetical order, notices of ninety recent poets.

(38) گلستان معرت ملقب بحدائق المعاني (P.)

The Rose garden of delight, also called the Gardens of sense, by 'abd al-Rahmán whose takhalluç is Shákir. He wrote this book at Lucnow during the reign of Amjad 'alyy Sháh in 1261 (the title is a chronogram) and he was assisted by Náçir 'alyy Naçyr whom he calls his instructor. He says in the preface that he used chiefly the Tadzkirahs of Sar-khúsh, of Wálih, of Shyr Khán Lódy, the نتائج الافكار of Qudrat Allah Qudrat (see Garcin de Tassy Hist. de la Litt. Hind. I. pp. 144 see also below), the تذكرهٔ باسطي, the حديقة الشعرا, the مخبر الواصلين which is a collection of chronograms made in 1268 by Matzhar al-Haqq, the گلدستهٔ نشاط of Mannú Lál, the عنايت نامه of Rásikh (see No. 13) and the Album of Kháshi' (flourished in 1092).

This is a selection of poems and single verses and bon-mots from poems arranged according to the subject and divided into five chapters حديقه. In the fourth there are chronograms on the death of celebrated men, but the dates are not always correct, thus the death of Zamakhshary is placed in 533, whereas he died 538, that of Ghazzály in 504 whereas he died in 505, &c.

The Garden of poetry being an anthology of verses of the great masters by Nitzám aldyn Khán b. Mo*h*ammad Naqyy of Bahádurganj. He quotes never more than one bayt from the same author in succession, and gives no biographical notices, he follows to some extent the chronological order. He says he used the Tadzkirahs of Taqyy Aw*h*ady, of Çáyib, of Myrzá (he means probably *T*áhir Naçrábády), of Siráj aldyn *A*rzú and of Wálih and the لطائف الخيال and the گلزار لطافت.

(42) نكات الشعرا تصنيف مير محمد تقي مير (P. U.)

Pithy Sayings of the poets, being a Tadzkirah of Rékhtah writers by Myr Mo*h*ammad Taqyy, whose takhalluç was Myr. Though usually the title Myr is put before his name, Shórish thinks that he was a Shaykh. The former title indicates a descendant from 'alyy, and the latter from Abú Bakr. He was a nephew of *A*rzú and a native of Agra, but after his father's death he removed to Dilly in order to be near his illustrious uncle, *A*rzú, who corrected his verses. After the year 1196, he went to Lucnow where *A*çaf aldawlah allowed him a pension of two or three hundred Rupees a month, and he died in that city between 1215 and 1221, near one hundred years of age. Qásim blames him for his conceit and for making in his Tadzkirah ill-natured remarks on his contemporaries.

Myr wrote this book about one year after the death of Mokhliç which happened in 1164, see p. 159 suprà. There occurs in it in the life of Dard the date 1196, but it was clearly inserted long after the book had been completed, this is proved by the following facts: it is put into the midst of the extracts, instead of forming part of the biography; Myr's Tadzkirah is mentioned by *H*ayrat;

the verse depends has two significations, one obvious and the other far-fetched, and it is the latter which is intended by the poet. The style which I have adopted comprizes all the figures of speech as buns, resemblance of corresponding words in rhyme and measure, &c."

(43) تذکرهٔ علي حسيني گردیزي (P.)

The Tadzkirah of Rékhtah poets by Fat*h* 'alyy who is usually called 'alyy *H*osayny Gurdézy compiled at Dilly in 1165, or six years after the death of Anjám, which happened in 1159, and a few years after the death of Ishtiyáq, which took place in 1161. It appears from Dzoká voce Yúsof, that he was a great Çúfy Shaykh and still alive when Dzoká wrote, even Qásim who wrote in 1221, speaks of him as if he was alive. Gurdézy says in the preface, that he was induced to compile this book because the accounts of poets in other Tadzkirahs were very invidious. He alludes evidently to Myr's Tadzkirah of which this appears to be a somewhat better arranged edition. It is written in Persian and contains about one hundred biographies in alphabetical order.

(44) مخزن نکات تصنیف قیام الدین قائم (P.)

The Depository of pithy Sayings by Qiyám aldyn Mohammad Qáyim of Chándpúr. He went early to Dilly, and obtained there an office under the emperor, but now, he says in his short autobiographical notice inserted in this book, owing to the decay of the empire, the string which has kept the servants of the emperor together is broken and they drop like pearls on the ground of humiliation. Every one turns his face to another side, and is obliged against his will to prefer emigrating to another place to remaining. He died in 1210 or 1207. The title is a chronogram for 1168 when he compiled this book. He denies in the preface every acquaintance with the preceding two Tadzkirahs, saying that no biography of Rékhtah poets had ever been written, but he choses so frequently the same extracts as his predecessors, that I doubt the truth of his assertion, though his book undeniably contains much original matter. He divides it into three chapters or periods طبقه 1. Ancient poets. 2. On the compositions of the poets of the middling period در کلام سخنوران متوسطین. 3. Modern poets. This is the most valuable work for the early history of Hindústány literature. Beginning

In the Móty Mahall is the autograph, 8vo. about 150 pp. Some places are left blank particularly towards the end of the book, and it is to all appearance merely a rough copy, which as the author came into difficulties about the time he compiled it, has probably never been finished. I had it transcribed for my use, but had unfortunately not time to make an abstract of the work when I was at Lucnow, and had access to the original, and as the original is very illegibly written, the copy made from it is incorrect, I plead this as an apology for the mistakes which may have crept into the subjoined list of Rékhtah poets.

(45) گلزار ابراهیم (P.)

The Garden of Ibráhym, being a biographical Dictionary of about 300 Rékhtah poets, by the Nawáb 'alyy Ibráhym Khán, who had the title of Amyn aldawlah Náçir-jang and the takhalluç of Khalyl and of *H*ál. He was born at Patna, and his mother's grandfather was the learned Mollá Mo*h*ammad Naçyr who was a pupil of Akhúnd Mollá Sháh Mo*h*ammad Shyrázy and died during the middle of the reign of Mo*h*ammad Sháh. 'Alyy Ibráhym was honoured with the friendship of Warren Hastings, and held under him the office of Chief Magistrate at Benares. He died in 1008. Jorät wrote the following chronogram on his death لو آه منّا مطلع دیوان عدالت. Yúsof 'alyy and Shórish mention him under Khalyl and 'ishqy under *H*ál. He left besides this Tadzkirah a memoir on the trial by ordeal, which is printed in the As. Res. 8vo. I. p. 389, and two or three Tadzkirahs of Persian poets. He alludes to two of them in the preface without giving any details or even their titles. Mr. J. B. Elliott in a letter dated Patna, 19th July, 1852, informs me that one of the Persian Tadzkirahs is called Kholáçat alkalám and contains Mathnawies, and the other Ço*h*ofe Ibráhym, containing Qaçydahs, Ghazals, &c. The former is very rare and the latter probably not extant. "I have made, he continues, inquiries from relatives, &c. and all that I can make out is, that he collected materials (poetry) for the work, but did not live to complete it. I have two volumes of unarranged materials. But he did complete the Bayádh and critical notices of all the poets, this is what Mr. Bland calls the Ço*h*of. It is a very thick, closely written 8vo. and is I believe unique, I met with it by mere accident." In a letter to Mr. Bland which is printed in the Journ. Roy. As. Soc. IX. p. 159, Mr. Elliott gives the following further details. "The Kholácat alkalám is appropriated to selections from, and abstracts of the Mathnawies of seventy-eight poets, who have produced the most approved works in that style of poetry. It is contained in two large quarto volumes of 2005 pages, each page containing four lines in breadth and twenty-one in length. To give some idea of the extent of the work, I may mention that a large royal octavo volume of 694 closely written pages is filled solely with the biographical notices of 3263 poets. The poetical extracts of this scarce work are not in my possession." From Mr. Bland's notice of the Bayádh it appears that the author completed it in 1205. Now as he had completed two Persian Tadzkirahs previous to 1195 and as the Çoḥof have never been completed, he must have written another Tadzkirah, with the name of which we are not acquainted. Yúsof 'alyy Khán informs that he was engaged in compiling a Tadzkirah of Persian poets on a very large plan in 1180.

This Tadzkirah was compiled during the years 1195 and 1196, and is distinguished by the copiousness of the extracts, and by the pains which the author has taken in fixing the dates. It appears that he entered into correspondence with most contemporary poets to obtain information of themselves, and extracts from their Dywáns for insertion. The biographies are in Persian.

The Tadzkirah of Sayyid Gholám *H*osayn who is familiarly called Myr Bhayná and whose takhalluç is Shórish. He was a native of Patna and a nephew of Mollá Myr Wahyd. He was first a pupil of Myr Báqir who had the poetical names of *H*azyn and of Tzohúr, and who died previous to 1193; and subsequently of Myrzá Ghasytá 'ishqy. He was a good improvisatore and had written, when he compiled this book, a Persian Dywán of about 4000 verses most of which dwell on mysticism. He died in 1195, and he probably compiled this book in 1193; for the latest date that occurs in it is 1192, and men who died in 1194 are mentioned as being alive. It has no preface or title page, nor does it appear from the autobiography that Shórish is the author of it, (though he speaks in the article on Shórish in the present tense,) the only authority which I have for ascribing it to him is the postscript which runs شورش تمام شد تذكرهٔ میر غلام حسین. It contains 314 short biographies written in Persian with extracts.

(47) تذكرهٔ هندي تصنيف غلام همداني مصحفي (P.)

The Hindy Tadzkirah, by Gholám Hamdány Muçhafy. He was of a good family of Amróhah in the Morádábád district, and spent his early years in Dilly where he used to hold Moshá'arahs or poetical assemblies, and came to celebrity as early as 1195. Subsequently he went to Lucnow, and it would appear from 'ishqy he supported himself by commerce. He died according to the Gulshane Békhár about the year 1243. When he wrote this Tadzkirah, in 1209, he had composed two Persian Dywáns, one in answer to Naçyry Nayshápúry and the other containing original poems and three Urdú Dywáns, a Persian Tadzkirah, a part of a Sháhnámah which comes down to the geneology of Sháh 'álam, an Urdú Dywán containing verses which he had made at Dilly and a rough copy of a Persian Dywán in the style of Jalál Asyr, and one in the style of Nácir 'alyy, but both these were stolen from him. It appears from the Gulshane Békhár that he continued his literary activity after he had written this book, and composed three more Rékhtah Dywáns, and another Tadzkirah of Rékhtah poets.

He wrote this Tadzkirah at the request of his instructor Myr Mostaḥsan Khalyq, and inserted in it very full biographies written in Persian of about 350 Rékhtah poets who flourished from Moḥammad Sháh to his own time, paying particular attention to the biographies of contemporaries, with most of whom he was personally acquainted.

(50) عيار الشعرا تصنيف خوب چند ذكا (P.)

The Touchstone of poets being a Tadzkirah of Rékhtah poets by Khúb Chand, a native of Dilly, whose takhulluç is Dzoká. He gives under the letter dz an account of his ancestors, but says very little of himself. His grandson informed me that he died in 1846, A. D. He left besides this book a Dywán, some Persian poetry, and some elegant compositions in prose. He undertook this compilation at the request of his teacher Myr Naçyr aldyn Naçyr usually called Myr Kallú in 1208 or 1213, but it appears that he continued making additions to it for more than thirty years, the last date we find in it being 1247.

It contains in alphabetical order an account of near 1500 poets who flourished from the commencement of Hindústány poetry to the author's time with specimens of their writings. It abounds in repetitions and inaccuracies of every description, and contains many persons who have never dreamt of writing poetry. It is without exception the most uncritical labour of the kind. The biographies are in Persian.

Excellent Selections being a Tadzkirah of Hindústány poets by the Nawáb Myr Mo*h*ammad Khán whose takhulluç is Sarwar and whose title is A'tzam aldawlah. The title of the book does not occur in the preface, but in some verses of Sayyid Ghálib 'alyy Khán towards the end of the work which form a chronogram for 1216, when the book was compiled. There are other chronograms in it for 1215, and in the postcript it is stated that the chronogram of the work is بحمد رحمت خدا which gives 1242. This may be the date when the book was completed, or perhaps when it was copied. The latest date which I have observed in the text is 1219.

Rare Collection being a Tadzkirah by Sayyid Abú-l-Qásim of Dilly who is usually called Qudrat Allah Qádiry and whose takhalluç is Qásim. Among his forefathers he counted Isma'yl Ghawrbandy and Sayyid Fádhil Gujráty, a Saint, whose tomb is at Gujrát and up to this day a place of pilgrimage. Qásim was in Arabia a pupil of Mawlawy Fakhr aldyn, in poetry, of Hidáyat Allah Khán Hidáyat, and in medicine, of *H*akym Mo*h*ammad Sharyf Khán. In 1221 he had written a Dywán of 7000 distichs and a Mathnawy on the Mi'ráj in the measure of the Mathnawy of Jalál aldyn Rúmy containing 30,500 (?) verses; and a Mathnawy in the measure of the Bostán of 5200 verses on the miracles of 'abd al-Qádir. He died about 1246. The title is a chronogram for 1221 the date of the compilation.

(53) طبقات سخن تصنیف عشق (P. H.)

Periods of poetical composition by Shaykh Gholám Mohyy aldyn Qorashy of Myrath (Meerut). His father, Shaykh Ni'mat Allah Ni'amy, was a good Persian poet and wrote a thick Dywán, in the arranging of which he assisted him when only twelve years of age. This gave him a taste for poetry and he wrote himself a Dywán in which he used the takhalluç of Mobtalá. Subsequently he devoted much of his time to archery, without neglecting however his studies. He learned Arabic grammar, but having a weak chest he was as it seems obliged to abandon it. When Sháh 'álam came from Patna to Dilly he gained the friendship of one of his courtiers, whose title was Nawáb Najaf Khán, and his name Ibráhym Bég, and his takhalluç, Alam, he was induced by him to write another Dywán in which he used the takhalluç of 'ishq and a Persian Mathnawy containing the story of Sháhrokh and Máhrokh in about 1700 verses, it is in the measure of the Mathnawy of Jalál aldyn Rúmy and has the title فسون عشق. He also wrote a Persian Tadzkirah which has the titles of مجموعهٔ عشق and of باغ گلهای حسن and fills about 1280 pages. The latter name is a chronogram for 1187. He also wrote an Inshá of about 200 pages, it has the title of چهار دفتر شرق which is a chronogram for 1199, and a treatise on chronograms called سرائر نسخهٔ. In 1220 he composed the بحار تشریح and العشق اشعات (؟ اشعة). The latter treats on Çúfism. He wrote this Tadzkirah in 1222, this date is contained in the title.

It is divided into two chapters طبقه, the first contains notices of upwards of a hundred Rékhtah poets, and the second notices of Persian poets of the same period. His biographies have the advantage of being original.

(62) تذکرهٔ یوسف علي خان (P.)

Tadzkirah of Persian poets by Yúsof 'alyy Khán who compiled this work at Murshidábád in 1180 and completed it in 1184 and died previous to 1195.

It contains in alphabetical order about three hundred short biographies of Persian poets from the beginning of poetry to the author's life-time. He informs us in the postscript that he intended to add two volumes containing the history from 'álamgyr to the year 1184, but it is very likely that he has not carried out his plans. The book has no preface. The appendix contains contemporary poets who have not been noticed by Arzú. Bg. حرف الالف میرباقر ولد شمس الدین المدعو بدامان المتخلص باشراق.

Large 8vo. 642 pp. 11 lines, copied in 1213 from a MS. which had been executed in 1195, this volume came accidentally to hand, after the preceding sheets had been printed, this is the cause why it has not been noticed in its place in page 161 before No. 33.

* Besides the Tadzkirahs described in this catalogue, Mr. Hall in an article in the Journ. As. Soc. Beng. Vol. XVII. p. 542 mentions the following ones: Majma' alintikhább by Sháh Moḥammad Kamál (see Journ. Asiatique Série IV. Vol. I. p. 1 and Vol. II. p. 361); Tadzkirahẽ Sho'aráẽ Jahángyr Sháhy; Tadzkirah by Myr Moḥammad 'alyy Tirmidzy; Tadzkirah by Myr Fakhr aldyn; Tadzkirah by Abá-l-*Ḥ*asan; Tadzkirah by Myrzá Jawán-bakht Jahándár Sháh.

Before concluding this chapter I insert an Index to the Urdú Tadzkirahs. The reader must remember that consistently with the plan of the work this is not intended to be an elaborate biography of Rékhtah poets, but merely a list of the materials available for such a biography, containing besides their names and the titles of their works, the principal dates. I am therefore not responsible for any mistakes or repetitions which may occur in the books indexed. For farther details and critical remarks, I refer to Garcin de Tassy's Hist. de la Lit. Hind. For the sake of brevity, I make use of the following abbreviations in referring to the above Tadzkirahs: A = Qáyim see No. 44; B = Gurdézy No. 43; C = 'alyy Ibráhym No. 45; D = Dzoká No. 50; E = Muçhafy No. 47; G = Gulshane Hind No. 49; H = Sarwar No. 51; J = Shórish No. 46; K = Qásim No. 52; M = Myr No. 42; P = Gulshane Bé-khár No. 56; R = Gulshane Bé-khizán No. 57 (I used this book only occasionally, whereas I made it a rule to abridge all the notices contained in the other Tadzkirahs); T = Tabaqáte Sokhan No. 53; V = 'ishqy No 48. I use the tense which I found in each Tadzkirah, this being in many instances the only indication of the time when a poet flourished, though not always a safe one. It is hardly necessary to say that many of the persons mentioned in this list have not left a Dywán nor any other works. I should have omitted them had I not been in danger to throw away the grain with the chaff. Such criticism is the duty of the historian.

I give the verse which H quotes of him, as it may enable the reader to decide on the identity of the two poets.

This is the account of A. He is also called Moḥammad in B. But E, who knew him personally calls him Tzohúr aldyn alias Sháh Hátim, and says that he was born at Dilly in 1111 and was a soldier by profession. E farther informs us that there was another Hátim at that time, and that the two were frequently confounded. Though a man who has the name of Tzohúr aldyn may also have the name of Moḥammad, it is not unlikely that A and others confounded the two, and that Moḥammad Hátim is distinct from Tzohúr aldyn Hátim, the latter being the more celebrated and the author of the Dywán-zádah. Mr. Hall however, whose opinion is very valuable, identifies the two. It would appear that Hátim gave the first impulse to Urdú poetry in Dilly. In 1132 the Dywán of Walyy was brought to Dilly and verses from it were on every body's lips, this induced him and three friends of his, Nájiy, Madhmún and *Á*brú to apply themselves to Rékhtah poetry. The taste for it spread rapidly and Hátim, according to his own statement, had no less than forty-five pupils. Up to the time of Hátim it would appear that Indian poets wrote in Persian, and made only occasionally, Rékhtah verses, there seem also to have existed many popular songs, which however, were almost purely Hindee. The first productions of Hátim (and probably also of his early contemporaries) were far-fetched and obscure, but when Rékhtah poetry had attained greater perfection he made a selection from his former Dywán and improved the style and called it دیوان زادہ as has already been stated on the authority of A. It has about 5000 verses and the metre of every poem is noted on the margin. It is stated by E that his object in making these selections was, that his poems might not be confounded with those of the other Hátim. He died two or three years ago, E. H and K inform us further that, he turned a Faqyr, that he had his takiyah near the Dilly gate of the palace and that many persons used to come to him for spiritual advice. For extracts from the preface to the Dywán-zádah see chapter on Rékhtah Dywáns.

THE SECOND CHAPTER.

WORKS OF PERSIAN POETS.

(63) ترجمهٔ تکلمه (P.)

A translation of Yáfi'y's Legends of Qádirian saints (see Çúfism) into Persian verses by 'abdy made in India under Sháhjahán in 1051.

The author is not mentioned in Tadzkirahs, he himself informs us that at the age of fourteen he was laid up with fever and his life was despaired of. He fell into a sleep in which 'abd al-Qádir appeared to him and promised him recovery. From the moment he awoke, the fever left him and he rapidly gained strength and henceforth he devoted himself entirely to the service of that saint.

The book is divided into 105 chapters حکایت each containing the history of a saint. Beginning in A. H. 1174, and in 1189 he bestowed upon him the title of king of poets (Çubhe Watn, p. 27).

(66) ديوان ابو الفرج رونى (P.)

The Dywán of Abú-l-Faraj, according to 'awfy his name was Abú-l-Faraj b. Mas'úd Rúny, he was a native of Láhór, and a panegyrist of Sulṭán Ibráhym (succeeded in 451, and died 481) the grandson of Sulṭán Maḥmúd of Ghaznah. Anwary carefully studied and imitated his Dywán. This statement is borne out by the contents of the Dywán, most Qaçydahs being in praise of Sulṭán Ibráhym. Dawlat-sháh mentions Abú-l-Faraj Sajry or Sajzy (on this name see Wálih and the Átishkadah, p. 114, it is usually but erroneously, spelled سنجري), and relates of him that he was attached to the court of Amyr Abú 'alyy Symgúr, who was governor of the Sámánides over Khorásán. When the family of Soboktogyn made war against this province, he was requested by the Symgúr family to write satyres against them. After the conquest of Khorásán Maḥmúd (succeeded in 387 and died in 421) intended to take revenge on him, but at the intercession of 'onçory (died in 441), the grateful pupil of Abú-l-Faraj, he not only spared his life, but treated him with great consideration. The dates show that these are two different persons yet they are constantly confounded. The verses quoted by Dawlat-sháh of Abú-l-Faraj are not found in this Dywán but those quoted by 'awfy are found in it. One copy begins :—

نظام عالم و خورشید ملک و ذات هنر
نصیر الدولت و پشت هدیٰ وروی ظفر

In the other copy (No. 1360) this is the commencement of the third Qaçydah, the first begins in it :—

سپهر دولت و دین آفتاب هفت اقلیم ابو المظفر شاه مظفر ابراهیم

As. Soc. of Bengal, two copies, which differ slightly from each other, one, No. 510, was copied in 1078, 8vo. 110 pp. of 17 lines; the other, No. 1157, 12mo. about 100 pp. of 15 lines.

Tetrashichs of Abú Sa'yde Abú-l-Khayr. His full name is Abú Sa'yd Fadhl Allah a son of Abú-l-Khayr, he was a great Çufy of Mahnah, his spiritual guide was Abú-l-Fadhl Loqmán of Sarakhs (on whom see Jámy, Naf. aluns No. 361). He devoted himself to ascetic exercises, led a very austere life and spent fourteen years in the wilderness, he died at the age of forty-four

(68) دیوان آصفي (P.)

The Dywán of Açafy. His father Moqym aldyn Ni'mat Allah was the Açaf (Wazyr) of Sultán Abú Sa'yd Myrzá. Açafy was in great favour with Sultán Hosayn Myrzá and possessed an astonishing memory and fine talents; but he was excessively vain, and wasted his time in adorning himself. He was a pupil of Jámy and a friend of 'alyy Shyr, and died at Herát at the age of seventy, in 928. Iláhy says, that he made the following Rubá'y on his own death, when he felt it was approaching.

سالی که رخ آصفی بهفتاد نهاد هفتاد تمام کرد و از پای افتاد
شد درهفتاد و مصرع تاریخست پیموده ره بقا بگام هفتاد

I have not found this Rubá'y in any of the copies of the Dywán which I examined, but not all copies do contain his Rubá'ys. Arzú does not consider it genuine.

He composed a Mathnawy in the measure of the Makhzane asrár and Qaçydahs in praise of the Imáms, but it is particularly his elegant Ghazals which brought him to celebrity (Iláhy; Taqyy Káshy No. 170; Dawlat-sháh Append. Khoshgú Vol. II. No. 39; H*abyb alsiyar*).

His Dywán consists almost exclusively of Ghazals and a few Rubá'ys. Beginning

(69) مهر و مشتري (P.)

The Sun and Jupiter, a romantic poem by Shams aldyn Mo*h*ammad 'aççár. The takhalluç of the poet عصار means an oil-presser, he chose it because he followed in his early years this profession. He was a native of Tabryz, and died in A. H. 784. He left besides this poem some Qaçydahs or panegyrics.

This poem was completed at Tabryz at 11 o'clock A. M. the 10th of Shawwál, but on the year the copies differ. Hammer Schoene Redek. Pers. p. 254 and one Lucnow copy have A. H. 778. Another Lucnow copy has 748, and the copy of the Asiatic Society has 788. The author who seems to have been an astrologer as well as a poet, gives us the constellation of the moment of the birth of this production of his genius, and it appears from it, that the sun was in the Pisces, that is to say, it was February. Now the 10th of Shawwál A. H. 778 coincides with the 20th of Feb. A. D. 1377. This therefore seems to be the correct date. (Sir G. Ouseley Notices of Pers. Poets

p. 201, Baron Hammer loco cit. and Peiper, Comm. de Mihri et Musht. amoribus Berl. 1839, have given very full accounts of this poem; see also Kholáçat alash'ár No. 177.) Beginning

(73) قصاید ادیب صابر (P.)

The Qaçydahs of Shiháb aldyn b. Majd aldyn Isma'yl Adyb Çábir. Some say he was a native of Tirmidz, and was brought up at Bokhárá, but the better established opinion seems to be, that he was born at Bokhárá and brought up in Khorásán. He studied at Herát and acquired a considerable knowledge of Arabic grammar and most sciences. His first patron was the Sayyid Abú Ja'far 'alyy b. *H*osayn Qodámah Músawy, who resided at Nayshápúr, and was so much respected that Sulṭán Sanjar called him his brother. Adyb Çábir resided long in his house at Nayshápúr, and was introduced by him to the Sulṭán Sanjar and the nobles of his court. He gained the confidence of the Sulṭán and when Atsyz raised in Khwárizm the standard of revolt against Sanjar, he sent Adyb as a spy to the court of Atsyz that he might continually keep him informed of the intentions of his enemy. It so happened that Atsyz dispatched an assassin who was to murder Sanjar on Friday. Adyb sent the intelligence of the plot and portrait of the assassin in advance. The plot was thus frustrated, but Adyb paid with his life for his fidelity to his former patron. Atsyz ordered that his hands and feet be tied, and that he be thrown into the Oxus. This happened in 546.

Adyb is one of the greatest of the early Persian poets, his merits are acknowledged by such high authorities as Jabaly, Anwary and *H*akym Súzany. Rashyd aldyn Waṭwáṭ and Adyb were contemporaries and very nearly equal as poets. There existed therefore a great jealousy between them, and they wrote satyres against each other. Rashyd aldyn seems to have higher talents, but Adyb is more of a scholar, and his poems are more polished. Adyb's Dywán was very rare at the time of Taqyy Káshy and the copy which he saw contained only 1000 verses, and was much injured. (Dawlat-sháh, 2,17; Taqyy Káshy No. 10).

This Dywán consists of Qaçydahs, most of which are in praise of Nitzám al-Khiláfat Majd aldyn, at the end are a few Rubá'ys, &c. Bg.

ای زمین را در رخت چون اسمان فر و بها
بوسهٔ را از لبت ملك جهان زیبد بها

Móty Makall, 136 pp. of 17 lines, the MS. is of some age, and contains apparently merely selections from the Dywán.

(74) دیوان آذري (P.)

The Dywán of Á*d*zory.

The name of this poet was Jalál aldyn *H*amzah (or 'alyy *H*amzah) b. 'alyy Malik *T*úsy Bayhaqy. He adopted the takhalluç of Á*d*zory because he was born in the month of Á*d*zor, November. His father was a man of importance at Isfaráyn, according to others at Bayhaq-Sabzwár, and in his early years Á*d*zory sang Qaçydahs in praise of princes, among them is one in praise of Sháhrokh, which is celebrated; subsequently he relinquished the vanities of this world, and became a Çúfy. His spiritual guide was the poet Ni'mat Allah (see below). He performed twice the pilgrimage and remained two years at Makkah, and wrote there a work containing an account of the Ká'bah and the ceremonies to be performed by the pilgrims, under the title of سعي الصفاء. Subsequently he went to India and was received with the greatest respect by A*h*mad-sháh Walyy (reigned from A. D. 1422 to 1435) of the dynasty of Kalbarga. He gave him a lakh of dirhams (according to Iláhy 10,000 dirhams) but Á*d*zory refused to accept them, and returned to Persia. On a subsequent occasion when Mo*h*ammad Báysanghor poured a bag of gold out before him he equally declined it, but Mojáhid Hindy, a very learned man who was present on the occasion, was less disinterested, and took a handful of gold mohurs and finally obtained the whole. Á*d*zory died at Isfaráyn in A. H. 866, at the age of eighty-two years. His tomb is at Isfaráyn, and was at the time of Dawlat-sháh so sacred, that convicts found an asylum there from the hands of justice.

He left a Dywán of 30,000 verses and several other works in prose and verse; the following two are mentioned by Dawlat-sháh, the Imperial *T*oghrá طغرای همایون, and Curiosities عجائب الغرائب, (This is probably a mistake for عجائب الدنیا). In the Khizánah 'ámirah is the following account of the works of Adzory. "I have seen a Mathnawy of Adzory which has the title of ثمرات Fruits. It consists of four books, each of which has a separate title. The first is called طامه المکري (?); the second عجائب الدنیا; the third عجائب العلي; and the fourth سعي الصفا. It is a mystical and ethical work;" I take a verse from it:

خواندہ باشي که زمرهٔ تقلید بصناعت کنند مروارید

(Hammer Shoene Redek. Pers. p. 300; Dawlat-sháh, 6; Taqyy Káshy No. 110. Haft Iqlym fol. 101.)

The Lucnow copy of his Dywán contains Qaçydahs 50 pp. of 15 lines. They begin:

اغازسخن به که کند مردم دانا بر نام خداوند تبارک وتعالی

Ghazals, 120 pages, of 13 lines, and some satyres, Rubá'ys, &c. The Ghazals begin:

گر کند بدرقه لطف تو همراهی ما چرخ بردوش کند غاشیهٔ شاهی ما

Gems of mysteries by Adzory, died 866. The author informs us in the preface, that this is an abstract, made in 840, of a work which he had compiled in 830. It consisted of four chapters and had the title مفاتيح الاسرار Keys to mysteries, and contained mystical explanations of some verses of the Qorân, of some traditions, of sayings of Çufies, and of verses of celebrated poets, more particularly of Kháqány. This is a most useful book for understanding Persian poetry. Dawlat-sháh says of it جواهر الاسرار مجموعه ایست از نوادر وامثال وشرح ابیات مشکله وغیر ذلک Bg.

(81) ديوان اهلي خراساني (P.)

The Dywán of Ahly Khorásány. He was of Tarshyz, and his name was Sharm (?) His father was a very religious man and was familiarly called Balpaky Sádah بلپكي ساده. Ahly came early to Herát and supported himself by writing for tanners and shoemakers. Through the interest of Khwájah 'abd al-*H*ayy Zargar he was appointed Nátzir of the mint. Being anxious to see the royal prince Farydún *H*osayn Myrzá, for whom he entertained a great admiration, he asked for admittance into a garden in which he was sitting, but Sulṭán-bakht a black slave refused it to him. He wrote some verses which contain an allusion to the name of the doorkeeper on a piece of paper, covered it with wax and attached it to an apple which he passed through the water course into the garden. The prince read the verses and granted him an audience. After the fall of the house of Myrzá Sulṭán *H*osayn (died in 911) he went first to Mashhad where he composed Qaçydahs in praise of the Imáms, then he came in great poverty to Káshán and was reduced to begging, and finally he proceeded to Tabryz where he supported himself by teaching archery. He died at Tabryz in 934, Khwájah Khalyl Allah Zargar made the following chronogram on his death :—

اهلي مرد نام نکويش بماند و بس

His erotic poems are distinguished by their heart-felt fervency. Taqyy Káshy has seen a Dywán of about 3000 verses of his. (Bland, A century of Pers. Ghazals; Sámy No. 224; Taqyy Káshy No. 196.)

Ahly Khorásány must not be confounded with Ahly Túrány, a Chaghatáy nobleman of a profligate character who lived at the court of Sulṭán *H*osayn Myrzá and died in 901 or 902 (Sámy No. 625; Khoshgú II. No. 4).

The Dywán of Ahly Khorásány contains merely Ghazals. Bg.

(82) ديوان اهلي شيرازي (P.)

The Dywán of Ahly of Shyráz. He was a friend of the philosopher Dawwány who had a high opinion of him, both on account of the soundness of his judgment and his acquirements. He wrote a Qaçydah in imitation of Salmán's celebrated poem and sent it to Myr 'alyy Shyr to Herát who was surrounded by the greatest poets of the age, and they all declared, among them Jámy—that he had surpassed Salmán, whereas all other poets who had imitated it, had failed to equal him. When his renown had spread through 'iráq, Khorásán and Ádzarbáyján, he went to Tabryz and after a stay of two years in that city he made the pilgrimage to Makkah and returned to Shyráz and lived in retirement to his death, which overtook him at an advanced age in 942. Agreeably to his wish he was interred in the Maçallá on the side of Háfitz and Sa'd Gul.

Ahly Shyrázy has not been surpassed in ingenuity of versification, his Sihre *h*alál is considered inimitable in this respect. (Bland, A century of Pers. Ghazals; Taqyy Káshy No. 210; Iláhy).

Contents: Qaçydahs in praise of the divinity, of the Imáms, of Myr 'alyy Shyr, Amyr Najm aldyn, &c. Two of these Qaçydahs are particularly celebrated, one in praise of Sulṭán Ya'qúb and one in praise of Sháh Ismáyil. 136 pp. 23 lines. Beginning of the Qaçydahs:

Qiṭ'ahs, chronograms, Mokhammas', &c. Specimen

(83) سحرحلال تصنيف اهلى شيرازي (P.)

Lawful sorcery by Ahly of Shyráz. The author says in the preface that one day he heard that two poems of Kátiby, one called مجمع البحرين and the other تجنيسات were much praised, because the former (as the name indicates) may be read in two different metres and the latter on account of the occurrence of words which consist of the same letters but have different meanings. This induced Ahly to compose a poem which combines these two properties. It may be read in the metre فاعلاتن فاعلاتن فاعلن or in the metre مفتعلن مفتعلن فاعلن. Moreover it has a double rhyme.

After a short preface in prose the poem begins:

این همه عالم بر تو بی شکوه رفعت خاک در تو پیش کوه

Móty Maḥall, 23 pp. of 24 bayts, a good copy. Mr. Bland, has promised an edition of this poem.

He composed them in one night and wrote each Rubá'y on a separate slip of paper, and so well are the cards described in them that you could play with the slips. Beginning (after a short preface in prose):

(88) دیوان احمد جام (P.)

The Dywán of Abú Naçr Aḥmad usually called Zandah Fyl ژنده فیل a son of Aby-l-Ḥasan Námaqy. He was descended from Jaryr b. 'abd Allah Bajaly and having been born at Jám, he is usually called Aḥmade Jám. His early education was so much neglected that he knew neither to read nor to write. At the age of twenty-two he turned an ascetic, and after he had spent sixteen years in solitude on a mountain where it would appear he applied himself to study, he again mixed with the world. He was born in 441 and died in 536. He was in every respect a most fertile and successful man. He prevailed on sixty thousand persons to do repentance, he had no less than thirty-nine sons and three daughters, of whom three daughters and fourteen sons survived him and turned holy men and great authors, forty of his disciples became celebrated saints, and he left fourteen mystical and ascetical works, among them are :—

Lamp of the Pilgrims through life سراج السايرين
Samarqandian Essay رساله سمرقندي
Companion of the Penitent انيس التائبين
Key of Salvation مفتاح النجات
Seas of Truth بحار الحقيقة

His son Tzahyr aldyn 'ysà is the author of a book called رموز الحقايق on mysticism.

The Dywán consists chiefly of Ghazals in which he praises various persons, and a few Qaçydahs and Rubá'ys.

Beginning اي یاد تو در دل و زبانها افتاده چو روح در روانها

It contains also a Mathnawy of about 100 bayts in praise of Aḥmade Jám, it is probably the composition of one of his disciples. Beginning

(90) دیوان ظفرخان احسن (P.)

The Dywán of Tzafar Khán Myrzá Aḥsan Allah Aḥsan who died in 1073 or 1083. A'rzú relates on the authority of Sarkhosh (the passage is wanting in one of my copies of Sarkhosh, but it is in Mr. Hall's copy), that Aḥsan had an album of the poets with whom he was acquainted as Çáyib, Qodsy, Kalym, Salym, Dánish, Myr Çaydy, Sálik Yazdy, Sálik Qazwyny, &c. it contained portraits of these poets and some of their verses written in their own hand. Sarkhosh says that he saw the leaf containing on one side the portrait and on the other the verses of Kalym in possession of Sháh 'ayán a devotee, (see pp. 109, 118, 117, and 149.)

He gives us in the preface to this Dywán the date, 1032, when he began his poetical labours in the following Rubá'y:

In the same volume is a Mathnawy with the title ساز میخانهٔ it fills 26 pp. of 13 bayts and treats on various subjects. It is preceded by a short preface in prose, in which the author praises his own poem. Beginning of the Mathnawy:

(91) ديوان آهي (P.)

The Dywán of A'hy. He was a chief of the Ulús which is one of the Chighatáy hordes, and he had originally the takhalluç of Nargisy but changed it into A'hy when he found that another poet of his time had adopted it. He was on terms of great intimacy with the prince Gharyb Myrzá a son of Sulṭán Ḥosayn Myrzá and dedicated his Dywán to him. He died in A. H. 927. (Kholáçat alash'ár; A'tishkadah p. 20).

The Table of Delicacies being the complete poetical works of Ni'mat Khán 'áliy of Shyráz, who died in 1121, see pp. 127, 151. It appears from the preface which is in prose, that his name was originally Núr aldyn Mo*h*ammad, and that he received the title of Ni'mat Khán in 1104, later he received that of Dánishmand Khán. 'áliy is particularly strong in the satyre, and indeed the hyperbolic style of the modern school of Persian poetry is suited only to the satyre and parody.

(99) كليات انوري (P.)

Complete poetical works of Aw*h*ad aldyn 'alyy Anwary the greatest Qaçydah writer of the Persians. He was born in a village close to Mahnah in the plains of Kháwarán in the country of Abyward and he therefore chose first Kháwary on his takhalluç. He seems to have been proud of his native country, for he used to say that it had produced three great men and that he was the fourth. These three men are Abú Sa'yd (see p. 309 suprà); As'ade Mahnah, a very learned man and a contemporary of Imám Ghazzály, with whom he used to hold disputations, and Khwájah Abú 'alyy A*h*mad Shádán Kháwarány the Wazyr of Toghril Bég b. Mikáyyl Seljúqy. A friend of his, 'omárah, who used to revise his verses prevailed upon him to change his takhalluç into Anwary, under which he has become celebrated. He was originally a pupil of the Mançúrryah Madrasah at *T*ús and very poor. The following occurrence prevailed upon him to exchange the study of divinity for the profession of a panegyrist. One day while he was sitting at the entrance of the Madrasah he saw a person passing by mounted on a splendidly caparisoned horse and accompanied by a numerous suit of slaves. The poor student asked who this great man was, and he was told that he was a poet. He wrote that very night a Qaçydah in praise of Sulṭán Sanjar and presented it the following morning. The Sulṭán being a man of very great taste recognised the man of genius in him and took him into his service. Sulṭán Sanjar died on Friday the 11th Raby' I. 552. Anwary was very strong in astrology and compiled several books on it among them, one called مفيد or the useful book. In 581 it so happened that there was a conjunction of all the seven planets in the sign of Libra, Anwary predicted a storm which would eradicate trees and destroy almost every building, so frightened were people at the approach of this partial destruction of the globe, that they built rooms under ground to live in. When the fatal day arrived it was perfectly calm and there was the whole year so little wind that the people were unable to winnow their corn. He died at Balkh in 586 and his tomb is on the side of that of the saint Aḥmad Ḥadhrawayh. Dawlat-sháh places his death in 556 and the author of the Ātishkadah in 656. Taqyy Awḥady has seen 12,000 verses of Anwary. Āzád saw a copy of the Dywán of Anwary which was written in 676 by Abú Bakr b. 'othmán 'alyy, along with it, some of them written in the same hand, were the Dywáns of Abú-l-Faraj Rúny, Qádhiy Shams aldyn Ṭabsy, Tzahyr Faryáby, Shaykh 'abd al'azyz Labnány and Náçir Khosraw.

(100) شرح ديوان انوري (P.)

in a short preface that he confined his exegetic labours to difficult verses, but that he also explained the meaning of rare words occurring in easy verses.

Beginning سپاسی که از روی گواهی خرد برذمه جمله افراد

In the Tópkhánah (56 pp. 17 lines) is a commentary on the Qiṭ'ahs of Anwary by Abú-l-Hasan *H*osayny Farahány, it begins:

(101) دیوان انیسی (P.)

The Dywán of Anysy. His name is variously spelt Yúl Quly Bég, Yúál Quly Bég and Lawlaqy, the first spelling is no doubt correct. It is said that he received the takhalluç of Anysy "companion" from the circumstance that he was the intimate friend and constant companion of prince Ibráhym Myrzá Jáh, a grandson of Sháh Isma'yl. He was first librarian of 'alyy Quly Khán governor of Herát under the Çafawides, he enjoyed at Herát the society of Shikyby of Ispahán, Myr Moghyç, Mahwy Hamadány and other poets of note. When 'abd Allah Khán Uzbak took Herát after a year's siege, he had a proclamation made in his army that the life of Anysy be spared, and he treated him with great respect and took him to Má-warà-lnahr. Unfortunately however all his papers were lost at the capture of the town, among them was a rough copy of a Mathnawy in the metre of Shyryn Khosraw. At the invitation of the Khánkhánán, he came to India and was appointed paymaster of the forces, subsequently he was still farther promoted and received a salary of fifty thousand Rupees and a Jágyr. Anysy was as much distinguished as a gallant soldier as he was as a poet. All poems of his which are preserved, were composed by him in India. He died at Burhánpúr in 1014 or 1015. He left among other poems محمود و ایاز in the metre of Khosraw ó Shyryn. (Máthir Rahymy; and Khoshgú, see also pp. 118, 45, 56 suprà).

Contents: Qaçydahs, Ghazals, and at the end a short Mathnawy. Beginning of the Qaçydahs:

Private collection B, 90 pp. of 17 verses, copied in 1183 apparently under the eye of the author. There is another Mathnawy by 'árif (whether the same 'árif or another I have no means to ascertain). It contains apophthegms, logographs, &c. At the end are added some Qaçydahs in praise of the Imáms. Beginning of the Mathnawy:

(103) شاهد عرشي (P.)

The Object of love by Myr Mo*h*ammad Mümin 'arshy. The date 1069, when he composed this poem is contained in the following verse:

تاريخ تمامش زخرد جستم گفت باحسن ازل شاهد عرشي زيبا

Árzú gives the following notice of him. "He was a brother of Myr Çáli*h* Kashfy and a son of Myr 'abd Allah Mushkyn-qalam *H*osayny, who was a celebrated calligraph under Jahángyr. Both brothers were poets, calligraphs and men of learning. Myr Çáli*h* is the author of the panegyric on 'alyy called مناقب مرتضوي. They are altogether a talented and distinguished family. They came originally from Persia, but since the reign of Jahángyr they inhabited Agra, I believe there are still descendants of this family extant. Myr 'arshy was a panegyrist of Mo*h*amınad Dárá-shikóh the eldest son of Sháhjahán. I have seen his Dywán, it is very simple, but it aims at high things and, it must be allowed, it contains fine thoughts. This 'arshy must be distinguished from the one mentioned above."

The author informs us that he diligently studied the Mathnawy of Jalál aldyn Rúmy and that this is an imitation of it. Beginning

(107) انتخاب از ديوان آرزو (P.)

Selections from the Dywán of Árzú who died in 1169 (see page 102).

Árzú has written about 31,000 Persian verses. Among his poetical works is a Mathnawy called شور عشق which is an imitation of Mahmúd ó Ayáz, a Mathnawy called جوش و خروش, a Sáqiy-námah called آب عالم, a Dywán in which he imitates Fighány, and one in which he imitates Salym containing to every poem of theirs a new one of the same rhyme and metre, he also imitated Athar. These selections contain about one-tenth of his complete poetical works:

It contains Ghazals 88 pp. 15 lines; Rubá'ys, poetical stories, Qaçydahs, &c. 60 pp. 17 lines. Beginning

The book was originally in the Pahlawy language, one day when the poet was with the royal army which was marching towards Hamadán 'amyd aldyn Abú-l-Fat*h*, a high officer of the king requested him to translate it into Párs*y* verses, and it was at his request that he wrote this epos. The style is simple and the language but little mixed with Arabic words, though the author does not pedantically avoid their use. Beginning

(116) دیوان اسیر (P.)

Dywán of Myrzá Jalál Asyr, of Ispahán, a pupil of Facy*h*y Herawy. He was a great drunkard and composed most of his verses in a state of intoxication. They were written down by an attendant who made many mistakes, and hence his Dywán has in some places very little meaning. This is probably the cause why it is so popular in India. He was in high favour with Sháh 'abbás and married a relation of his. He died in 1040 or 1049. Arzú says that his complete works contain 20,000 verses, Abú Tálib has seen 8000 verses; (see pp. 109, 117, 149.)

He was a pupil of Myrzá Hádiy Qalandar the father of 'olwy Khán, he spent the greater part of his life at Ispahán and never visited India. The date of his death which happened at Lár is recorded in the following verse:

سال وفاتش جو خواستم زاثر كفت كرد وداع از جهان معلم ثاني

Wálih estimates his Dywán to 10,000 verses, and Abú *T*álib to 8000. Árzú praises particularly his panegyries on the Nawáb *H*aydar alzamán and his satyre on Najaf Quly Khán the Çadr alçodúr of Persia. It appears from the following chronogram that he collected his Dywán in 1106. بهر تاريخ رقم كرد اثر كهر صلب شهنشاه زمان

(120) دیوان اثیر (P.)

The Dywán of Athyr aldyn Mohammad Akhsykaty, whose takhalluç is Athyr. Akhsykat is a place in the district of Farghánah in which he was born. He made his studies at Balkh and Herát and spent the greater part of his life in the 'iráq and Ádzarbáyján at the court of the Átábuks and stood in high favour with Arslán Sháh b. Toghril, Ilduguz and Qizil Arslán. His success was the cause of much jealousy, and Mujyr, Baylaqány who was in the service of Mohammad Átábuk, the brother of Qizil Arslán, wrote satyres against him, to which he replied. Towards the end of his days he took Najm aldyn Kobrà as his spiritual guide and retired from the world. He went from Ádzarbáyján to Khalkhál and died there in 608. His poems are considered nearly equal to those of Anwary and Kháqány, yet Taqyy Káshy says, he had much difficulty in finding a copy of his Dywán, his poems being not much read. It contained about 10,000 verses. (Taqyy Káshy, No. 27; Dawlatsháh 2, 18; Mo*h*ammad 'awfy, folio 125; Á'tishkadah p. 424; Khoshgú I. No. 120.)

The Dywán contains Qaçydahs and a few Qiṭ'ahs, Rubá'ys, &c. most of them in praise of Sháh Arslán Toghril whose name occurs in the following verse:

بفراخت رایت حق بر تافت روی باطل
الب ارسلان ثاني شاه ارسلان طغرل

The following Tetrastich contains the poet's name:

آنم که حسد برده بر امروز دیم جانم خردم دلم ندانم که چیم
چون پرسیدي با تو بگویم که کیم سلطان سخن اسیر اثیر اخسیکتیم

Bg. جهانرا هم جهان بانیست پیدا بین وپنهان دان

Móty Ma*h*all, a beautiful copy, 104 pp. of 14 lines.

(121) دیوان فرید الدین عطار (P.)

The Dywán of Faryd aldyn 'attár. His name was Abú *H*ámid (or Abú *T*álib) Mo*h*ammad and he was a son of Abú Bakr Ibráhym, a respectable druggist of Shádyákh not far from Nayshápúr, he is therefore called Nayshápúry. He was born in 513, in a village called Kedken, during the reign of Sinjar. First he followed the profession of his father and hence his takhalluç 'attár, the druggist. He informs us in his Gul Khosraw that he gave way to his predilection for poetry notwithstanding the admonition of his friends, and neglected the study of medicine. He commenced two of his best mystical works whilst he was still a druggist, but apparently before he had completed them he left his shop and turned a religious mendicant.

مصیبت نامه کاشوب جهانست الهي نامه کاسرار نهانست
بدارو خانه کردم هر دو اغاز چه گویم زود رستم زان آن باز

These two verses upset the silly story of his sudden conversion related by Dawlat-sháh, and the account of the disgusting love adventure which we find in Táqyy Káshy. He took Rokn aldyn Akáf as his spiritual guide, and after some time he made the pilgrimage with him to Makkah. In the course of his life, he became personally acquainted with most Çúfies of his age and collected four hundred volumes of works on mystical theology which he diligently studied, and he became thereby one of the most copious and profound Çufy-writers. He was put to death during the carnage of the Tatars of Chengyz Khán, in 627, at the advanced age of 114 lunar years, of which he spent 29 at Nayshápúr and 85 at Shádyákh. According to some authors, he died earlier.

After 'attár's death, says Sir G. Ouseley, an eminent Çúfy was asked, to whom he ascribed the more profound knowledge of the Çúfy doctrine, Jalál aldyn Rúmy or Faryd aldyn 'attár; he answered, "The former like an eagle flew to the height of perfection in the twinkling of an eye; the latter reached the same summit, but was crawling slowly and perseveringly, like an ant."

Dawlat-sháh says that out of forty, there were at his time twelve Mathnawies of Faryd aldyn extant, the remaining having been lost. This catalogue contains a description of twenty-two of his works including his biography of saints and besides, we find mention of the following:

مفتاح الفتوح mentioned by Ouseley and Stewart, Catalogue p. 60; both these authors have seen it.

لسان الغيب mentioned by the same.

Bír-námah mentioned by Stewart. Hammer writes Pír-námah, I suppose they mean the بیسر نامه

Kent Kunz Mokhfiâ (?) mentioned by Stewart.

Mansúr-námah and Aúsat-námah mentioned by the same.

شرح قلوب اخوان الصفا and سیاه نامه, ولد نامه, حیدر نامه mentioned by Khoshgú, the last named work is supposed to be in prose.

Contents: Qaçydahs 39 pages of 34 bayts: Bg.

(122) حقایق الجواهر (P.)

Perhaps the correct title is جواهر الحقایق but it is twice written as above in the manuscript. The author is Faryd aldyn 'attár, who uses here the takhalluç of Faryd and Faryd aldyn. It consists of Qaçydahs and Tarjy'-bands, which with the exception of the first six, are alphabetically arranged, and treat on the Taw*h*yd. Dawlat-sháh states that several commentaries have been written on these poems, and that one of the commentators was Sayyid 'izz aldyn Âmoly. Beginning

As. Soc. No. 1338, on the margin 9 pp. of 20 lines; Tópkhánah, 10 pp. 13 bayts, this copy begins with the following verse which is on the fourth page of the Society's copy, and as it has nevertheless about 200 verses, the Society's copy must be incomplete at the end.

(124) مصیبت نامه (P.)

The book of Accidents or Misfortune, by the same poet. The title is contained in the following verse:

(126) جواهر الذات (P.)

The Essence of Existence, that is to say, the principle of life or the soul, a poem by Faryd aldyn 'attár.

This Mathnawy resembles a litany; sometimes more than fifty verses begin with the same words, as for instance:

خدا را یافتم چون راه ببردم زنام و ننگ خودبیني بمردم
خدا را یافتم درجان حقیقت که بسپردم شریعت در طریقت
خدا را یافتم در جوهر جان حقیقت باز دیدم روی جانان
خدا را یافتم جمله خدا بود چو بود من زبود من جدا بود
خدا را یافتم در لا مکان باز چو دیدم عشق جانان در مکان باز
خدا را یافتم در اصل موجود نظر کردم حقیقت جمله او بود

This poem, it would appear from a postscript to the Asiatic Society's copy No. 370, is divided into three daftars or books, and resembles in its contents the *H*adyqah or the Mathnawy of Mawlawy Rúmy. The author states that it is similar to the Ushtar-námah and Iláhy-námah, but superior to both. Beginning of the first daftar:

بنام آنکه نور جسم و جان است خدای آشکارا و نهان است

Beginning of 2nd daftar:

تعالی الله از آن دیدار پر نور که در ذرات عالم گشته مشهور

As. Soc. No. 370, this copy contains two daftars, the first 244 pp. of 50 bayts, and the second 232 pp. of 50 bayts, but it is defective at the end; Ibidem Nos. 1373 and 1338, both these MSS. contain only the commencement.

(127) اشترنامه (P.)

The Ushtar book, by Faryd aldyn 'attár. This poem does not contain a history of Ushtar, as might be inferred from the title, but it treats on theosophy, and is very much in the style of Jawhar aldzát, for instance towards the end there are no less than 153 verses which begin with the words اي وصلت. Beginning

It treats in 20 chapters مقاله on the high position of man, on the resurrection and judgment, and on the principal virtues to be practised, and vices to be avoided. The subject is illustrated by legends and parables. Bg.

(141) دیوان عظیم (P.)

The Dywán of 'atzym. Sarkhosh (see p. 113 suprà) calls him 'atzymá and Wálih 'atzymáyiy, but his takhalluç is uniformly spelled 'atzym in the Dywán, thus in the very Ghazal from which Sarkhosh takes a verse:

منشور سرفرازي داريں را عظيم بر نام ما نوشته منصور داده اند

The age when he flourished is fixed by several chronograms which occur in the Dywán for 1068, 1069, 1074, &c. He was a son of Mollá Qaydy, who was a nephew of Mollá Natzyry. He came to India, says Wálih, and received a high appointment at Lahór from Sháhjahán. In making this statement Wálih confounds him with Áqá 'atzymá. 'Atzym of Nayshapúr wrote his Dywán in his native country and not in India, and he sung the praises of Bayram 'alyy Khán of Khorásán and Mo*h*ammad Ibráhym, to whom he gives the title of Khán b. Khán and not the praises of Sháhjahán:

At the end is a small essay in flowery prose and two short Mathnawies.

As. Soc. No. 714, a good copy.

(142) ديوان اوحدي (P.)

The Dywán of Awḥady. There were two contemporary poets who had this takhalluç, both of whom were Çúfies, and they are confounded with each other in most Tadzkirahs.

The name of the elder of them is Awḥad aldyn Hámid Kirmány. He was a pupil of Rokn aldyn and a friend of Moḥiyy aldyn al'araby, who mentions him in his Fotúhát. The disgusting practices which he introduced among the Darwyshes, will be described in another chapter. He is according to all accounts the author of the مصباح ارواح. According to Khóshgú, No. 53, his takhalluç was Awḥad and not Awḥady and he died in A. H. 536. This date however is a glaring mistake, for Moḥyy aldyn his contemporary died in A. H. 638. It is likely that he died in A. H 697. This is the date mentioned in the Nafáyis al-máthir.

Awḥady the younger was a pupil of the preceding and it is in his honor that he assumed this takhalluç. He first had that of Çúfy. His name was Rokn aldyn Ispahány or, according to others, Marághy. He was a friend and contemporary of Sa'dy, and died, according to most Tadzkirahs, in A. H. 697, five years after he had completed the Jáme Jam. According to Jámy Nafaḥát aluns No. 568 and the Nafáyis al-máthir and the Habyb alsiyar III. folio, 543, he completed this poem in A. H. 733 and died at Marághah in 738. They support their statement by two very strong facts. The date of his death they say is engraved on his tomb-stone at Marághah and the date of the composition of his Jáme Jam is recorded in the following verse of Awḥady himself:

چون ز تاریخ برگرفتم فال هفتصد رفته بود و سي و سه سال

It is clear that those biograghers who place his death in A. H. 697 confound him with Awḥad aldyn Kirmány. This blunder seems to have originated with Dawlat-sháh. He devotes only one article to both poets, and says at the end that Awḥady died in A. H. 697, under Maḥmúd Gházán Khán, and that he is buried at Ispahán and that the pious perform pilgrimages to his tomb. There is no doubt that he means the tomb of Awḥad aldyn Kirmány, but later authors have taken it to apply to Awḥady Ispahány.

It is difficult to say whether this Dywán is by Awḥad aldyn Kirmány or by Awḥady Ispahány. I have unfortunately neglected to see whether the takhalluç of the author is Awḥad or Awḥady, I think however the latter is the case. It begins with a Mathnawy entitled مفتاح الارواح "the key of spirits" in the metre:

معفولن مفاعلن فعولن معفولن مفاعلن فعولن

It fills 66 pp. of 13 lines. The end is wanting. The initial line is چون غرهٔ صبح گشت غرا شد طرهٔ اسمان مطرا

Jámy quotes the conclusion of the Mathnawy of Awḥad aldyn Kirmány which has the title مصباح الارواح, and it appears that it is in the same metre. It is not unlikely that مفتاح الارواح is a mistake for مصباح الارواح, and that this poem is by Awḥad aldyn Kirmány.

After this Mathnawy follow Qaçydahs, the beginning of which is wanting and then Ghazals. The Ghazals fill 152 pp. of 13 lines and begin:

اي غم عشق تو یار و غار ما جز غمت خود کس نزیبد یار ما

In the Átishkadah p. 75, in the biography of the younger Awḥady the following verses are quoted which I found in this Dywán:

شربتی ده که کم کند جوشش — داروی ده که به شود بیمار
چیست این ناله وفغان در شهر — چیست این شور ونتنه در بازار
همه در جستجو و ان فارغ — همه در گفتگو و ان بیزار
راه بسیار شد مرنجان خر — دزد همراه شد میفگن بار

The Qaçydah in which these verses occur is also ascribed to the younger Awḥady by Jámy, No. 568. It is therefore clear that this MS. contains poems both of the elder and younger Awḥady, the Mathnawy being by the former and the Qaçydahs and Ghazals by the latter, who according to Dawlat-sháh has written 10,000 verses and according to Taqyy Káshy 14,000. His poems were much sung by Darwyshes.

Móty Maḥall, carefully written in 1018, in the middle defective, and containing to all appearance merely selections.

(143) جام جم (P.)

The Mirror of Jamshyd, a mystical poem by the younger Awḥady, composed in 733, in imitation of the Ḥadyqah of Sanáy. This Mathnawy was so much valued, that no less than 400 copies of it were taken at Ispahán within one month after it had been composed.

Beginning قل هوالله لمرء قد قال من له الحمد دایما متوال

He describes the plan of his work in the following verses, which however are not consecutive.

(151) دیوان از رقي (P.)

The Dywán of Abú-l-Maḥásin Abú Bakr Zayn aldyn Azraqy. He was according to Nitzámy 'orúdhy (Chahár Maqálah, quoted in the Kholáçah of Taqyy Káshy) a native of Herát and a son of Isma'yl Warráq, who was of Marw. He introduced himself into the society and confidence of the Seljúqy prince Toghán-sháh I. the seat of whose government was Nayshápúr by the composition of a most obscene book entitled Alfyyah Shalfyyah الفية شلفية which he illustrated with pictures. From the description which Hájy Khalyfah Nos. 1153 and 1615, and Jámy, Baháristan edit. Schlechta-Wssehrd p. 88 give of it, it appears to have been a version of the Kókshashter, to be mentioned hereafter. Azraqy is also the author of the book Sindbád سندباد and of several other works, which he dedicated to his patron. Taqyy Káshy says that the copy of his Dywán which he saw, did not contain more than two thousand verses. He died at Herát in A. H. 527. (Mohammad 'awfy 10, 2; Kholá- çah No. 9; Dawlatsháh 2, 1; Hammer p. 129.) This Dywán contains merely Qaçydahs, in all about 1800 verses.

(152) دیوان بدر چاچ (P.)

The Dywán of Badr aldyn (Khoshgú writes Fakhr aldyn) Mohammad Cháchy who is usually called Badre Chách, that is to say the full moon of Chách, or the Badr aldyn of Chách. Chách is the ancient name of the Táshkand, the birth-place of the poet. Attracted by the liberality of Sultán Mohammad Sháh, a son of Toghluq, he came to India and spent the greater part of his life at his court, and composed many Dywáns in his praise. In his Dywán occurs the date 745 in the following verse:

بسال دولت شه بود غرة شعبان که سوی مملکت دیوگیر شد فرمان

Khoshgú identifies him erroneously with Badr aldyn Jájarmy, who died in 686.

Contents: Qaçydahs in praise of God, in praise of his patron, and in praise of Dilly, &c. at the end are a few Qit'ahs.

(153) حملهٔ حیدري تصنیف محمد رفیع خان باذل (P.)

The Lion's Attack, being a Mathnawy, by Moḥammad Rafy' Khán whose takhalluç is Bádzil. He was a descendant of Ja'far Saróndi Mashhady. Wálih says that he was born at Mashhad, but Arzú, who knew him personally, informs us, that his father or grandfather came from Mashhad to India, and that Bádzil was a native of Dilly. He was commandant of the fort of Gwályár, and and when he lost his appointment on the death of 'álamgyr he lived in retirement at Dilly, where he died in 1123, the chronogram on his death is جا مهر علي بجنتش داد. Besides this poem, he left a Dywán (see pp. 110, 140).

This epos which consists of 40,000 verses and is not much shorter than the Sháh-námah is a rhymed version of the Ma'árij alnobúwat, and contains the biography of the prophet and of his son-in-law 'alyy; the author completed it in 1119, after he had been engaged in it for fifty years. Beginning

(154) نان و حلوا (P.)

Bread and Sweetmeat, a Mathnawy, by the great Shy'ah divine Bahá aldyn 'ámily whose takhalluç was Baháyiy.

He was a native of 'ámil but spent the greater part of his life at Ispahán. He died in 1030, and his corpse was carried to Mashhad for interment. The chronogram on his death is بی بها شیخ بهائي گو. Besides this Mathnawy and many Arabic works, which will be enumerated hereafter, he left a Dywán and a Kashkúl or Adversaria, of which there is a very beautiful copy in the Fara*h*-bakhsh library. Abú *T*álib also ascribes to him a Mathnawy called شیر و شکر. For farther information regarding him and his other works, I refer to the chapter on Shy'ah theology.

This poem is considered as an introduction to the Mathnawy of Jalál aldyn Rúmy. It begins after a few lines of preface in prose

As. Soc. No. 869, 22 pp. of 15 bayts, copies are frequent.

The author imitates Faryd aldyn 'attár in making a litany of his poem, for example he goes on in this strain through a number of verses,

(162) ديوان بناي (P.)

The Dywán of Bannáyiy. His father was a respectable architect at Herát, the birth-place of the poet, and his takhalluç is derived from banná, builder.

He was a very clever and witty man and skilled in almost every art and science, he was a profound Çúfy, an exquisite calligraph and a distinguished composer of music. On account of his erudition, it was said that he was the Mollá of poets and the poet for Mollás. His conceit roused the jealousy of Myr 'alyy Shyr: a spiteful expression of his being reported to him, his indignation was so great that Bannáyiy was obliged to leave his native country. He went into the 'iráq and was kindly received by Sulṭán Ya'qúb to whom he dedicated his بهرام و بهروز. After some time he returned to Herát and tried to conciliate the favour of the Myr by writing a Qaçydah in his praise. He presented it but received no reward, and he therefore substituted the name of Sulṭán Aḥmad Myrzá for that of 'alyy Shyr, saying that he would not give away his daughters without dowry. Myr 'alyy Shyr was so enraged at this, that he obtained a death-warrant against him. He fled to Má-warâ-lnahr and was received at the court of Sulṭán 'alyy Myrzá b. Sulṭán Aḥmad Myrzá b. Sulṭán Abú Sa'yd; and he wrote for him a Qaçydah called مجمع الغرائب in the dialect of Marw. His fortunes were still in the ascendant when Moḥammad Khán Shaybány took possession of Má-warâ-lnahr. He conferred the title of King of Poets upon him, and when he marched into Khorásán he gave him opportunities to revenge himself on the poets of his native country, who had persecuted him. He returned from Herát to Máwarâ-lnahr and was killed in the massacre of Shâh Ismâ'yl in 918. In some Ghazals in which he imitates *H*âfitz he uses the takhalluç of *H*âly. Taqyy Kâshy has seen about 6000 verses of Ghazals and Qaçydahs of his. (Sâmy, No. 213; Tâqyy Kâshy, No. 169.)

This copy of the Dywân contains only Ghazals. Bg.

Hints of the Pure, a mystical poem, by Báqir 'alyy Khân, a son of Gholâm 'alyy Khân Madany, he says that he was induced to write this poem by the study of the Mathnawy of Mawlawy Rúmy. From the introduction, it would appear that he wrote under Moḥammad Shâh (reigned from 1132 to 1161).

Sháh 'abbás imprisoned him on the suspicion of some fault, but after he had suffered one year's incarceration, his innocence was proved and the Sháh heaped favours upon him. Subsequently he visited Karbalá and remained two years there in the society of learned men, then he proceeded to Káshán and finally he went to India and entered the service of Ibráhym Pádsháh. It is now twenty years, says the author of the Máthir Rahymy, that he holds an appointment in the library of the Khánkhánán. It appears from the Átish-kadah p. 324, that he subsequently again returned to his home. In his poems occur the names of Akbar, Ibráhym 'ádil-sháh and Tzohúry.

The Dywán of Ghazals of 'abd al-Qádir By-dil. He derived his origin from the Chaghatáy tribe called Birlás and Olús, but he was born at 'atzymábád (Paṭna), and died at Dilly on the 4th of Çafar 1133. Though he was not a learned man he had a profound and extensive knowledge of Çúfy literature, and his predilection for mysticism shows itself even in his satyres. (See pp. 119 and 213, see also Arzú Majma', and Azád Khizánah.)

The Dywán of Çarfy. It is probable that the author of this Dywán is Çaláh aldyn Çarfy; the identity however is not fully established. He was of Sáwah and a contemporary of Maqçady, 'ahdy and Tzaryfy Sáwajy. When he began to devote himself to poetry, he went to Káshán, where in those days Mo*h*tasham was the great master in this art, and stayed there ten years and made the acquaintance of several poets of note, as Wá*h*shy of Báfiq, Ghayraty of Shyráz, and *H*átim, Fahmy, Shujá' and Radhy'áyiy natives of Káshán and of Myr *H*aydar Mo'ammáyiy Káshy. The last named poet as well as Mo*h*tasham revised his verses. As soon as he had attained celebrity, he went to India where he died. (Máthire Rahymy, MS. As. Soc. (186) خلاصهٔ کبیر دیوان صائب (P.)

Selecta majora from the Dywán of Myrzá Mo*h*ammad 'alyy *Ç*áyib. His father, a merchant by profession, was one of the Tabryzians تبارزه whom Sháh 'abbás caused to settle at Ispahán in a quarter of the town called after him 'abbásábád, they were like the Kashmyries at Dilly, a clever and industrious race, and many of them were goldsmiths. Çáyib was first instructed in poetry by the *H*akym Roknáyiy Káshy, and subsequently his verses were revised by the *H*akym Shifáyiy Ispahány. According to Shyr Khán Lody, p. 140, he came first as a merchant to India, his poetical talents introduced him at the Court of Sháh-jahán, and he remained at Dilly until Tzafar Khán (see p. 325 suprà) took charge of the Government of Kashmyr. Attracted by the liberality of this nobleman and the beauty of the climate, he accompanied him to that country. Á*z*ád says that when a young man, Çáyib made the pilgrimage to Makkah and returned to Persia, subsequently towards the end of the reign of Jahángyr he again left his native country with a view of going to India. When he had reached Kábul Tzafar Khán, who at that time acted as governor on the part of his father, Á*b*ú-l-*H*asan Torbaty, induced him to take up his residence with him. On the death of Jahángyr his successor Sháhjahán bestowed the Government of Kábul on Lashkar Khán, when Tzafar Khán hastened to the presence of his new sovereign accompanied by Çáyib, and found him making conquests in the Deccan, A. H. 1039. Here Çáyib remained some time till his father came from Ispahán with the hope of prevailing upon him to return to his native country. In furtherance of this object Çáyib composed a Qaçydah in praise of Khwájah Abú-l-*Ha*san and his son Tzafar Khán, in which he solicits their permission to depart. But the emperor having returned to Agra in 1041 and shortly after appointing Tzafar Khán governor of Kashmyr, Çáyib accompanied him to that country, and after a short stay there, returned to Persia, where Sháh 'abbás II. bestowed the title of king of poets upon him. He died in 1081 and is buried at Ispahán.

Sa'dy, says *A*bú *T*alib, may be considered as the originator of the Ghazals, Bábá Fighány gave it new life, and his manner was in vogue, until Çáyib wrote Ghazals in an entirely new style, and he may therefore be considered as the founder of the new school. (Ouseley, Notes Pers. Poets, p. 227, see also pp. 90, 125, 112, 151 suprà.)

اگر نه‌مد بسم‌الله بودی تاج عنوانها نکشتی تاقیامت نوخط شیرازه دیوانها

Móty Ma*h*all, a good copy, written in 1081, the title خلاصه کبیر is in the postscript; there is a copy of a fragment of the complete Dywán in the Móty Ma*h*all, 776 pp. of 19 bayts, it contains merely the Ghazals rhyming in d, which in the preceding copy fill 160 pages, it is probably the second out of three or four volumes, it begins:

آبها آیینه سرو خراسان تو انده بادها مشاطه زلف پریشان تو انده

A splendid copy of the Dywán of the Ghazals of Çáyib, is in the As. Soc. No. 54, small folio about 700 pp. of 88 bayts, it was written for Sháh 'abbás, and begins like the Selecta: اگر نه صد بسم الله بودی

There has been lithographed at Lucnow, Moçtafáy Press, 1264, 12mo. 168 pp. of 12 bayts, a book of selections from the Dywán of Çáyib under the title of انتخاب دیوان صائب. We are informed in a short preface which is in prose, that Darwysh 'ámiláyiy Balkhy paid a visit to Çáyib at Ispahán, and having obtained his Dywán, he made selections from it which he called مراة الجمال some authors however call them واجب الحفظ, the latter I suspected is the correct title. The printed Intikháb is founded upon them and contains Ghazals and Rubá'ys and begins: غیر حق را میدهی ره در حریم دل چرا

There is a splendid MS. in the Móty Mahall, 444 pp. of 19 lines entitled آرایش نگار containing verses of Çáyib, most of which are descriptions of various objects; as, a mirror, arrow, bow, peacock, &c. It begins:

خورد دانست انکه جرم خویش را بیچاره شد آدم از جنت برای گندمی اواره شد

In the Tópkhánah, (250 pp. 40 bayts) a copy of the same work has the title of مراة الجمال It is totally different from the lithographed selections from the Dywán of Çáyib.

In the Asiatic Society, No. 666, 352 pp. 14 bayts is a MS. inscribed مراة الجمال صائب. It is a serápá or description of the beauty of the human figure, and consists of verses taken from the Dywán of Çáyib, they are arranged under 21 chapters, containing the description of the eyebrows, eye, nose, &c. and the verses in each chapter are alphabetically arranged. This no doubt is the genuine Mirát aljamál, and like the preceding work it has nothing in common with the Intikháb printed at Lucnow. Beginning

The Dywán of Nitzám aldyn Maḥmúd b. al-*H*asan *H*osayny of Shyráz, who had the takhalluç of Dá'iy. Taqyy Káshy, No. 166, says that he was of the school سلسله of Ni'mat Allah, and he praises his Mathnawy called مشاهد. Iláhy says he was a disciple of Ni'mat Allah, and as this saint died in 827 he may have known him. Wálih, Nos. 4 and 16, distinguishes between Sháh Dá'iy and Dá'iy Shyrázy but apparently without sufficient grounds. The author divides his Dywán into three parts

(198) دیوان غفور (P.)

The Dywán of *H*akym Faghfúr Láhijy. He also used the takhalluç of Qasmy and Myr. In Abú *T*álib he has the name of *H*akym Mo*h*ammad *H*osayn Faghfúr Yazdy. He was of a Sayyid family of Láhyján in Gylán, and possessed almost every accomplishment: he knew Arabic well, composed beautiful melodies, wrote an elegant hand, was a clever chess-player and excelled as a physician, in this art he was a pupil of his uncle Táj aldyn *H*osayn who was a pupil of the celebrated Çadr alshary'at Gylány. He seems also to have possessed some skill in arithmetic, and is the author of a useful treatise on counting with the fingers درحساب اصابع. After he had visited, partly on account of political disturbances, Mázanderán, Adzarbáyján and Armenia, he came to Ispahán which was then a great seat of learning, and made the acquaintance of *H*akym Shifáyiy and other men of note. Being a man of independent fortune, he was not under the necessity of gaining his subsistence by writing panegyrics on great men, yet he was received with great distinction by 'alyy Quly Khán Shámlú, who held a high office at the court of Sháh 'abbás. In 1012, he went to India, on the road he made several poems in praise of the Khánkhánán, for which he received the most liberal presents, and he was introduced by him to Sháh Parwyz, a son of Jahángyr, who took him in 1025 into his service. He died at Iláhábád in 1028 or 1030. (*Máhthire Ra*h. folio 627 and suprà pp. 151, 91.)

The Dywán contains Qaçydahs, most of them in praise of Sháh Parwyz, and Ghazals. As the copy is defective in the beginning and end, I take a chronogram from it for 1024.

He was born in a place called Shamájy شماجي and he, as well as Anwary, was a pupil of Abú-l-'olà of Ganjah, some authors say that Anwary was a pupil of Falaky. His patron was Manúshihr Shirwánsháh, the ruler of Shirwán. He was skilled in mathematics and astrology and left a book on the latter subject. It is the predilection for this science, which induced him to choose the takhalluç of Falaky (the man of the spheres of heaven) though according to Ulugh Bég it was an unhappy choice. He died in 577. Táqyy Káshy has seen about 7000 verses of his, and Abú Tálib 3000. Beginning of the Qaçydahs:

(200) دیوان فانی (P.)

The Dywán of Mollá Moḥsin Fániy of Kashmyr, he was in poetry a pupil of Mollá Çarfy Kashmyry, and in Çúfism a disciple of the Shaykh Moḥibb Allah Iláhábády. For some time he held the office of the Çadárat of Iláhábád and was much respected, but when Sulṭán Murád-bakhsh conquered Balkh, a copy of the Dywán of Moḥsin was found in the library of Nadzr Moḥammad Khán, the fugitive sovereign of that kingdom, which contained panegyrics on him; Sháhjahán was so much enraged at his duplicity, that he removed him from his post, but he allowed him a pension. Fániy returned to his native country Kashmyr, and spent his time in instructing young men. He was enamoured of a public woman of the name of Nájy, with whom unfortunately Tzafar Khán fell also in love, and their rivalry led to enmity between them. Fániy died in 1081 and left a Dywán of 6000 or 7000 verses. (Mirät alkhiyál, p. 254; Arzú, and suprà pp. 113, 117, 116.)

This copy of the Dywán contains merely Ghazals.

(210) دیوان فرید احول (P.)

The Dywán of Faryd aldyn Aḥwal (the squinting) whose takhalluç is Faryd. He was a native of Isfaráyn in Khorásán, but he came first to celebrity at Ispahán, Ádzor p. 247 and Khoshgú I. No. 180 are therefore of opinion that he was a native of Ispahán. He was a clever poet and very good musician. As soon as his merits were acknowledged he went to Shyráz, and his talents were an introduction for him to the court of the Átábuks, at which he spent the greater part of his life. He was a contemporary and rival of Imámy and by order of his patron Khwájah Nitzám aldyn Abú Bakr, the Wazyr of 'adhod aldyn Sa'd, several poetical contests took place between them. He died at Ispahán and left a Dywán, of which *T*áqyy Káshy has seen 5000 verses. (Dawlatsháh 3; Khol. alash'ár, No. 44.)

The Dywán of Myrzá Moḥammad Moqym Fawjy. He was born at Shyráz and his takhalluç, which means campaigner, is derived from his early profession. He came to India and was attached to the service of Sháh Shujá', a son of Sháhjahán and resided in Bengal.* After a long residence in India he made the pilgrimage to Makkah, and returned to his fatherland but died a short time after his arrival (Arzú; Shyr Khán Lódy, p. 259 and suprà p. 96.) We find in his Dywán the following chronogram for 1059:

پير خرد زشادي تاريخ سال لن خنديد وگفت اب نشاط و رواق عيش

* Sarkhúsh of whose Tadzkirah, I consulted two copies, one belonging to me and one to Mr. Hall, says simply فوجي از شعراي بنگاله بود اما صاحب فكر بود (see p. 113 suprà). I fear this notice is incomplete, for in one of the Lucnow copies of Sarkhúsh, it is stated that Fawjy came under Sháhjahán to India.

(212) دیوان فیض (P.)

The Dywán of the distinguished mystical philosopher and theologist, Mollá Moḥsin Káshány, whose takhalluç as a poet was Faydh, and he was therefore commonly called Akhúnde Faydh. He was a nephew of Mawláná Dhiyá aldyn Núráy Káshy, and in tradition a pupil of Baháy (see p. 369 suprà), and of Sayyid Májid Bokháráy and he was by marriage connected with the philosopher Çadrá Shyrázy. Moḥsin, says Ádzor, succeeded to bring reason and positive religion, and dialectics and Çufism into harmony. He flourished under Sháh 'abbás II. who treated him with great respect, and he has written a great number of works many of which will he described in their respective places. Ádzor mentions کتاب اصفی and کتاب صافي which are two commentaries on the Qorân, کتاب وافي on Ḥadyth and Law, and حجة البیضا مفاتیح on ethics. He died at Káshán under or after Sháh Solaymán, and his tomb is a place of pilgrimage (A'tishkádah, p. 330; Wálib, No. 122, for a further notice see the chapter on Çúfism).

Contents: A preface in prose 21 pp. 18 lines, containing a vocabulary of Çúfy terms, which has the title of المشواق. He says that mystical poetry is of five kinds: either true love عشق حقیقي is poetically described or it consists of dithyrambs, in which the poet describes his desire to meet the beloved, or he describes the beauty of the divinity which he beholds in the mirror of the perfection of the human figure, or he writes moral sentences, or he paints the love of the initiated (literally of the perfect saint). On the first four subjects Faydh wrote a book called "the desire of love" شوق عشق and on the fifth he wrote one which has the title of شوق المهدي. Subesequently he divided the Shawke 'ishq into its four constituent parts and gave to each part a separate name, viz; 1, Desire of Love شوق العشق; 2, Desire of Truth شوق الحق; 3, Desire of Beauty شوق الجمال; 4, Desire of Perfection شوق الكمال. He gives to expressions like the curl, the mole, the cheek, &c. the metaphorical meaning which is explained in the Gulshane Ráz. It appears this copy contains only the first part, viz. the شوق العشق for I find no such division in it as mentioned above. It consists of Qaçydahs, alphabetically arranged, 24 pages of 18 bayts. They begin:

چه سان گویم ثنای حق تعالی نیم چون من سزای حق تعالی

(220) دیوان فغاني (P.)

The Dywán of Bábá Fighány of Shyráz. His father being an artizan, he was not brought up for the profession of letters, and it was his extraordinary talent for poetry which caused him to abandon his original vocation. Arzú says, as the poets of Khorásán did not appreciate his compositions, he left his home and went to Sultán Ya'qúb. This would imply that he first tried his luck at the court of Sulṭán *H*osayn Myrzá and Myr 'alyy Shyr; for under "the poets of Khorásán" no doubt the poets which surrounded that court are meant. Sámy and Taqyy Káshy relate that he proceeded to Tabryz and was soon acknowledged by the literati of that part of the country, as the best poet of the age. His reputation recommended him to Sulṭán Ya'qúb who conferred the title of Bábá or Bábáye Sho'ará upon him and appointed him his principal court poet. After the death of his patron he went to Khorásán and settled at Abyward. As he was a confirmed drunkard, the governor of that place allowed him two pounds of meat and two pints of wine a day. Finally he came so far in his vice that he allowed himself to be employed as a porter by the people of the wineshop. Towards the end of his life he went to Mashhad, and when Sháh Ismá'yl took that town he made a celebrated Qaçydah on Imám Músà and in praise of the sháh. He died in 925.

He is one of the best Ghazal writers, and is therefore called the little *H*áfitz, Taqyy Káshy has seen a Dywán of 6000 verses of his. (Bland, A Cent. of Pers. Ghazals; Sámy, No. 215).

(222) شاهنامه (P.)

The Sháh-námah or book of kings by Firdawsy. Firdawsy means the Paradisian, and is the takhalluç of Abú-l-Qásim *H*asan (or Mançúr) b. Is*h*áq. Some authors say that he chose this takhalluç because his father was gardener in a garden called Firdaws. He was born near *T*ús in A. H. 328. He came to Ghaznah to find redress against the oppression which his family suffered at the hands of the governor of *T*ús. Sulṭán Ma*h*múd the conqueror of India who resided at Ghaznah had formed the plan of having the poetical records of the history of Persia put into a new garb, and he entrusted various poets of his court with episodes to put them into verse. Firdawsy in his place had at *T*ús, at the suggestion of his teacher Asady, been engaged in the same task. Not long after his arrival at Ghaznah, Ma*h*múd having seen his performance, gave him the preference over all his court poets, and entrusted him with the completion of the work. At first he was liberally rewarded by the king, but subsequently owing to the intrigues of the minister Maymandy he was obliged to leave the court of Maḥmúd and wrote satyres against him. He died at Tús in 411.

Moḥammad 'awfy says that 20,000 verses of the Sháh-námah are by Daqyqy, and the other 60,000 by Firdawsy. Táqyy Káshy further informs us that the last 4000 verses are by Asady who completed the book at the request of Firdawsy during his last illness. According to this account the Sháh-námah would have 80,000 verses, but the copies now extant, contain from 46 to 56,000 verses. It appears from Moḥammad 'awfy's account that in his time, 670 years ago, complete copies of the Sháh-námah were rare, the text usually read being "The Selection اختيارات from the Sháh-námah" made by Khwájah Mas'úd. This statement gives us a clue for explaining why the MSS. now extant differ so much in the number of verses: we may suppose that some copyists of the selections referred to the original, and enlarged them by making farther extracts from it.

The name of Daqyqy was, according to the Átishkádah, Mançúr b. Aḥmad, he was a native of Bokhárá and flourished under the Sámánide dynasty, and it is said that he put the story of Gustásp into verse by order of Núh b. Mançúr who was deposed in A. H. 387.

Asady Túsy was the teacher of Firdawsy. He died during the reign of Mas'úd the son of Maḥmúd, his portion of the Sháh-námah begins with the inroad of the Arabs into Persia. He is also the author of a poem called Gershásp-námah گرشاسپ نامه and of some Qaçydahs and of dialogues containing disputations.

I have given a full notice of Khwájah Mas'úd who made the Selections from the Sháh-námah in the Journal of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, Vol. 22 p. 442. He died in 525 and left three thick Dywáns, one in the Persian, one in the Arabic and one in the Hindústány language of that day. He is the earliest Musalman poet who wrote in Hindústány of whom we have any account.

(233) اثار شباب تصنيف غزالي مشهدي (P.)

Remnants of youth, this is the title of a Dywán of Ghazzály of Mashhad, which he dedicated to Akbar. He came early in life from Khorásán to Ardestán in the 'iráq and after a long stay in that city he proceeded to Káshán. His poetical talents were of the highest order and his fame spread all over Persia, but as he was a great free-thinker he found it advisable to expatriate himself from his native country, and to take refuge in India where he found a most favorable reception at the court of Akbar (see p. 61 suprà). His poems might throw much light upon the philosophy of the time of Akbar and it is therefore very desirable that they be collected and preserved. Taqyy Káshy has seen besides this Dywán another Dywán of Ghazals entitled انية الخيال and one of Qaçydahs named بحر مناقب and he believes that he has left a third Dywán of Ghazals which he has not seen. Besides he composed three Mathnawies in imitation of the Makhzane Asrár which are entitled قدرت آثار , مشهد انوار , نقش بدیع and a Mathnawy entitled عاشق و معشوق in imitation of Khosraw wa Shyryn, and one entitled محمود و ایاز in imitation of Laylá wa Majnún, he also imitated Kátiby and wrote a poem of 500 verses, which can be read in two metres, has a double rhyme and abounds in puns تجنیس.

(238) کلیات حاذق (P.)

Complete poetical works of *H*akym *H*ádziq. He belonged to a family of distinguished physicians which was originally of Lahyján in Gylán. His grandfather *H*akym 'abd al-Razzáq enjoyed a great reputation in Persia and was in high favour with Khán A*h*mad the ruler of Gylán and with Sháh *T*ahmásp. He had three sons, Abú-l-Fat*h* in whose praise 'orfy and others have written panegyrics, Núr aldyn Mo*h*ammad Qaráry and Najyb aldyn Humám, who is the father of *H*ádziq. After the death of their father, the three brothers went to Ardebyl to prosecute their studies. And subsequently they proceeded from Ardebyl, in the disguise of merchants, to India. They were introduced at court and Abú-l-Fat*h* gained the entire confidence of Akbar and was one of the most influential men about him, but, says Badáwny, he was a great free-thinker. He died in 997. Humám was less distinguishsd than his brother and died in 1004. *H*ádziq was born at Fat*h*púr Sykry as he informs us himself.

اگرچه مولد من است فتحپور و لیك روانی دلمن پر زنور یونانی است

Though he was not a very good physician the reputation of his father and uncle was an introduction for him and under the patronage of the Khánkhánán he attained to rank and wealth. Naçrábády says that he was extremely egotistical and considered himself equal as a poet to Anwary. (Máthire Rahymy fol. 619).

Removal of the Veils from the difficulties of Books, by Mo*h*ammad Afdhal (Sarkhush ?) of Iláhábád. He informs us in the preface, that in this work the difficulties of Persian poets which are generally read in India are explained with the exception of the Mathnawy of Jalál aldyn Rúmy and the *H*adyqah, and that it consists of sixteen treatises رساله. He probably devoted to every poet a separate treatise, this however is not clearly stated. This is the seventh treatise and contains a commentary on *H*áfitz, and we gather from it that the preceding number contains a commentary on the Sikandar-námah. The Commentator flourished under Sháhjahán.

He spent the greater part of his life in his native city, Dilly, and was a disciple of Nitzám aldyn Awliyá and an intimate friend of Amyr Khosraw and Dhiyá Barany. The latter author says of him that he had never seen so quiet, abstemious and holy a man as *H*asan. He died at Déógyr according to the Mirät alkhiyál, p. 67, in 707 but this is the date with which his memoirs of Nitzám aldyn which have the title فواید الفواد begin, they end with the year 720. Taqyy Káshy says he died twenty years after Amyr Khosraw, and *T*álib says he died in 738. He left besides a Dywán of about 10,000 verses, and the memoirs just mentioned, also another prose work entitled سیر الاولیا and, according to Jámy, Nafahát, several Mathnawies. (252) ليلي مجنون هاتفي (P.)

The Loves of Laylá and Majnún, a poem by 'abd Allah Hátify of Jám. He was the son of Jámy's sister, and spent his life in great ease in a garden near his native city. His fame was very great even during his lifetime, and in 927 when Sháh Isma'yl in his return from the conquest of Khorásán passed through Jám, he paid him a visit and prevailed upon him to describe his victorious career in an epos. The poet consented, but died in the same year before it was completed, he only composed one thousand verses of it. Having a particular talent for the Mathnawy, it was his ambition to imitate the five poems of Nitzámy, he wrote however only four. (Sám No. 211; Ouseley p. 143).

The poem begins with a verse of Jámy:

The Dywán of *H*ayraty. He was originally of Marw but he declared himself that he was of Tún. Wálih says that he was of Má-wará-lnahr. He came early to Ray and spent several years in that city. Subsequently after a visit to Baghdád he went to *Á*dzarbáyján; being much given to drinking he found it necessary to proceed to Mazánderán, where that vice was less punished, and he spent five years in the house of *Á*qá Rostam, the governor of that province. In reward for a Qaçydah which he composed in praise of Sháh *T*ahmásp, he obtained the title of king of poets and was called to court, and after a short residence there he was requested to compose a Mathnawy under the title بهجة المباهج. In order to enjoy greater rest for his literary labours, and perhaps also to indulge more freely in his habitual vice, drunkenness, he went to Káshán, which he considered as his home, and he was murdered there in 961. He left besides the above mentioned epos another Mathnawy to which he gave the title of گلزار and which is an imitation of the Bostán. All his verses amount to about 40,000. (262) دیوان هلالي (P.)

The Dywán of Badr aldyn Hiláły. He was by origin of Chaghatáy, but was born at Astrábád. He received a good education and was skilled in science. It is on account of this combination of poetical talents with erudition that he is called the Little Jámy. He went early in life to Herát, which was then under the patronage of Myr 'alyy Shyr, the great seat of learning, and made the acquaintance of many celebrated poets, among them Nargisy, with whom however he had several controversies. When he had attained to celebrity he visited 'iráq and Ádzarbáyján, and was every where well received by the great; he remained for some time with prince Abú-lnaçr Sám Myrzá, the author of the Tadzkirah mentioned in page 12 suprà. Love for his native soil brought him back to Herát, which town had in the meanwhile been taken by 'abd Allah Khán U'zbek. He made a Qaçydah in his praise, which was well received, but his enemies persuaded the Khán that he was a heretic, and he was put to death on this charge in 939. The author of the Átishkadah p. 34, ascribes to Hilály, besides the two Mathnawies to be mentioned below, a Laylá ó Majnún (Sám No. 210; Taqyy Káshy No. 207; Khoshgú II. No. 60). Beginning

(265) دیوان ناصر خسرو حجت (P.)

The Dywán of Náçire Khosraw Ḥojjat. It appears from more than one passage of his poems that he was of Khorásán (and not of Ispahán) and flourished under the Fá*t*imite Khalyfah Ma'add b. 'alyy Mostançir, who succeeded in 427 and died in 487.

ترا باد از جهان ناصر امام حق مستنصر
مبادا فضل تو قاصر ازین بندهٔ خراساني

He was apparently a man of very brilliant talents and an original mind, and acquainted with all the sciences cultivated in his days. Being himself descended from 'alyy, he mixed himself up in the religious and political disputes which then divided the Mo*h*ammadan world, and was one of the great champions of the Shy'ahs. His turn for philosophical speculations moreover made him, even among his own party, suspected of free-thinking, nay of being an adept of the black art. It is said that he believed in metempsychosis. He was in consequence exposed to many persecutions. His biographers inform us that he was a school-fellow of the philosopher Faryáby. When he had obtained a name he went to Egypt and was appointed Wazyr by the Khalyfah Mostançir, subsequently he was compelled to take flight from Egypt to Baghdád, and obtained a high office, but after a short time he was obliged to yield to persecution and he fled to Khorásán, and finally he retired to Badakhshán and led the life of an ascetic taking a cave as his habitation. He died in 481, and is buried in the cave in which he lived. Some authors say that he died in 431. Among his poems is a Qaçydah in praise of 'imad aldyn Abú-l-Ma'áliy ruler of Badakhshán. It is said that he left many works, among them are some on the occult sciences, Taqyy Káshy has inserted a short memoir of his which has the title رسالة الندامة في زاد القيامة in a Persian translation into his Tadzkirah. He composed it towards the end of his life. Dawlat-sháh mentions two works of *H*ojjat:—the كنز الحقايق which is in prose and the روشنای نامه which is a Mathnawy. Jámy in his Baháristán mentions a سفرنامه or Journal of *H*ojjat in which he gives an account of his travels to various countries (probably also to India) and of his disputations with learned men. His Dywán has, according to Dawlat-sháh, 30,000 verses, and according to Taqyy 20,000. It consists of Qaçydahs most of which treat on philosophy and morals. Bg.

(274) کلیات ابن یمین (P.)

The complete poetical works of the Amyr Fakhr aldyn Mahmúd b. Amyr Yamyn aldyn Mohammad Mostawfiy of Faryúmad, which is three days journey from Sabzwár, he is generally known by his takhalluç, Ibn Yamyn, i. e. the son of Yamyn aldyn. He was of a wealthy Tatar family and exceedingly liberal and charitable, he was therefore generally respected, and it is said that repeatedly the governorship of some province of Khorásán was offered to him, but he refused to accept it. He died in his native town in 745, and left panegyrics on the Sarabdár (or Sarabdál) princes and some Ghazals, but it is particularly his Qit'ahs which are celebrated, many of his poems however were lost by him in 743 in war. Qit'ah or Moqatta'ah is defined to be a poem consisting of several verses of the same metre and rhyme, but without a Mafla'. If it has a Mafla' it is either a Qaçydah or a Ghazal. It may be added that most Qaçydahs are panegyrics and most Ghazals are erotic poems, whereas Qit'ahs contain more frequently moral reflexions, yet many are panegyrics. (Iláhy; Taqyy Káshy No. 76; Dawlat-sháh 5, 7).

he proceeded after a visit to his home to Yazd, with a view of being initiated by 'izz aldyn Maḥmúd Káshány, the translator of the 'awárif alma'árif into the mysteries of Çúfism. During the reign of Moḥammad Motzaffar who died in 741 and Sháh Shujá', he founded a Khánqáh in Kirmán, and the fame of his sanctity was so great, that instead of paying a fee to a physician, the inhabitants brought the sick to him that he might cure them by his breath and prayers. Among his numerous disciples was a cat, who used to say prayers with him. To this circumstance refers the verse of Háfitz.

Dywán of 'imad aldyn 'imády, the panegyrist of 'imád aldyn Daylamy, who, if he is identical with the 'imád aldawlah mentioned in the Shyráz-namáh, died in 333. It is said that 'imády was born at Ghaznah, and therefore he is called Ghaznawy, and he resided at Shahryár not far from Ráy, and he has therefore also the patronymic of Shahryáry. Some authors however maintain that 'imády Ghaznawy and 'imady Shahryáry were two distinct poets, the former of whom flourished at the time of Maḥmúd, and the latter under the Seljúqians. If the distinction be founded, this Dywán must be ascribed to 'imády Ghaznawy, because the verses quoted by 'awfy of that poet are found in it. This question has been discussed at some length by the author of the Haft Iqlym, Khoshgú and Taqyy Káshy; the latter places the death of 'imády Shahryáry in 573. This Dywán consists of Qaçydahs or panegyrics.

The Dywán of the Çúfy poet Fakhr aldyn Ibráhym b. Shahryár 'iráqy of Hamadán. In his early years he learned the whole Qorán by heart, and when he was seventeen years of age he became a pupil of the celebrated Çúfy Shiháb aldyn Sohrawardy. He repented so much a hasty answer, which he had given to his spiritual guide, that he turned a wandering qalandar and went to India. At Multán he met Bahâ aldyn Zakariyá who gave him his daughter in marriage, and who on his death-bed declared him as his successor and as the spiritual guide of his flock. In India he composed some very beautiful elegies expressive of his love for his native country. After twenty-five years' residence in India, being obliged to give way to the jealousy of some of the followers of Bahâ aldyn, he performed the pilgrimage to Makkah and went thence to Aleppo and Rúm (Iconium?) where he met Çadr aldyn Mo*h*ammad Qunyawy, and he studied the Foçúç of Ibn 'araby with him. Whilst he read this book he composed a work called Lam'át لمعات (sparks or inspirations). He was given, even more than other Persian poets, to the disgusting crimes of which they boast in their compositions. He died in 686 or 688: Dawlat-sháh places his death in 709.

(289) قصائد عبد الواسع جبلي (P.)

The Qaçydahs of 'abd al-Wási' b. 'abd al-*H*ámiy ('abd al-Jámi'?) Jabaly Sulṭány. He was born in the mountains of Ghurjastán; hence his takhalluç, which means mountaineer; and he was descended from a family of Sayyids. According to the general opinion his early education was much neglected. Some of his biographers however contend that he could not have attained to such excellency in poetry if this had been the case, and they are of opinion that he has received a good education. From his native mountains he came to Herát, where he applied himself to study and thence he proceeded to Ghaznah. He found a patron in Bahrám Sháh, who succeeded to the throne of Ghaznah in 512 and died 543. This is the same prince to whom Sanáyiy dedicated his *H*adyqah and for whom *H*amyd aldyn Naçyr Allah, a pupil of Abú-l-Maḥámid Ghaznawy translated the Kalylah wa Damnah from Arabic into Persian. When Sulṭán Sinjar took Ghaznyn Jabaly composed poems in his praise and was fourteen years in his service. He died in 555 or 543. Taqyy Káshy has seen 6000 verses of Jabaly, Wálih says that he left about 8000 verses of which he had seen 1000. His poetry is difficult to understand, and therefore considered very beautiful ('awfy 10, 3; Dawlat-sháh 2, 2; Taqyy Káshy No. 17; Shyr Khán Lódy p. 37; Ouseley, Biogr. Not. of Pers. poets p. 108).

(296) بیان حقایق احوال سید المرسلین (P.)

Explanation of the verities of the history of the prophet by Fadhl Allah Jamály of Dilly. He was a pupil of the Shaykh Samá Allah who, according to 'abd al-*H*aqq, died in 901, at an advanced age. Jamály was a great traveller, he made the acquaintance of Jámy (who died in 898) at Herát and wrote an account of his own travels سفر نامه. He was deeply versed in Çúfism and is considered as a saint. His tomb, a very elegant little building of white marble, is a short distance S. E. of the Kotob minár, eleven miles from Dilly. The Jamály mentioned in p. 48 suprà either is not identical with the author of this book or the date of his demise must be incorrect, as will appear by comparing the above dates. The author of the A'thár alçanádyd, p. 165, places the death of the author of this work in 922, and says that خسرو هند is a chronogram for it but this gives 925.

The book is divided into several parts, and each part has a separate title. The first is entitled مصباح الارواح, and the seventh and last part شرح الواصلین و سم القاتلین وشهد المرضیین وسیف للجاهلین. The date of the composition of the first part, 868, is contained in the following line:

هشت سال و شصت سال و هشتصد رفته بد از هجرت شاه رمد.

The work contains a mystical view of the life of Mohammad. The author usually gives one or two traditions with a Persian translation, and some explanations in prose, and then follow his illustrations which are chiefly legends in verses. The first part begins:

اي طالب انوار اسرار معاني و جويای تجليات ظاهر

The Sharḥ alwáçilyn begins—

نام بسم الله الرحمن الرحيم مي سزايد بر صراط مستقيم

As. Soc. first part, No. 632 about 400 pp. of 15 bayts, a splendid copy, at the end are Rubá'ys, &c. about 60 pp. Sharḥ al-wáçilyn, As. Soc. No. 1285, written in the same hand, but in a different shape, about 400 pp. of 15 lines, it ends with the words تم الكتاب المسمى بشرح الواصلين و باتمامه تم الاقسام السبعة الموعود من الكتاب الوارد في بيان حقائق احوال المصطفى صلعم. After this follows a short Mathnawy, 27 pp. which has the title of مهر القلوب and probably belongs to the work. Beginning مي كشد هر روز تيغ آفتاب.

The poem has been lithographed, Lucnow, Sulṭány press, s. a. 21 pp. with copious glosses.

(313) ديوان كاتبي (P.)

The Dywán of Shams aldyn Mo*h*ammad b. 'abd Allah Kátiby. He was born in a place not far from Tarshyz, but he proceeded early in life to Nayshápúr, and applied himself, under the tuition of Symy, to calligraphy—hence his takhalluç. When he had attained to celebrity he proceeded to Herát and became a court poet of Baysanghor, but as a Qaçydah rhyming in نرکس which he made "to order" in imitation of one of Kamál Ismáyil did not meet with approbation, he went to Astrábád and eventually to Shirwán. He was favourably received by Amyr-zádah Ibráhym, who bestowed 1000 Dirhams upon him for the first poem which he made in his praise. It rhymes in گل. After having visited Ádzarbáyján, Tabaristán and other provinces to earn his livelihood by composing panegyrics on great men, he turned a religious mendicant and took Çáyin aldyn as his spiritual guide. He diligently studied the Çúfy literature and wrote several mystical poems. He died at Astrábád in 838 or 839. According to Khoshgú he left 30,000 verses, but other authors mention only half of that number, Sir G. Ouseley's copy contains the following works, گلشن ابرار the Rose Garden of the Pure. مجمع البحرین Combination of two Metres (see on this Mathnawy p. 322 suprà) سي نامه. Thirty Epistles. ده نامه Decalogue. Other authors add the names of the following works حسن و عشق، ناصر و منصور، بهرام و گل اندام، محب و محبوب، تجنیسات

The Book of Joy of Fatymah, an epic poem in which the life of the daughter of Mohammad is described by the physician Kátzim, who had the title of *H*ádziq almulk, and was a son of the Mojtahid (Shy'ah divine) *H*aydar 'alyy Tostery Najafy. The date of the composition, 1150, is contained in the last verse.

هزار و صد و باز پنجاه بود ز هجرت نه این دولتم بخ نمود

The author informs us in the preface that when he was a young man he compiled a history of the prophets and the Imáms and gave it the title احسن السیر. One day some one mentioned to him the *H*amlahë *H*aydary of Bádzil (see p. 368 suprà) and the صولت صفدري by Mohibb 'alyy Khán, this induced him to imitate the example of these two poets, and to write a sacred epos for which he chose Fáṭimah as his subject, and in four months he composed seven thousand verses, he placed at the head of his poem about 1400 verses which Moḥibb 'alyy had written in praise of Fáṭimah, and which formed a separate poem.

(318) دیوان قصائد خاقاني (P.)

Dywán or collection of Qaçydahs of Afdhal aldyn Ibráhym Kháqány (according to the commentator, his name was 'othmán and not Ibráhym). He was a son of 'alyy and a native of Shirwán. His verses were first corrected by Nitzám aldyn Abú-l'olà, who gave him his daughter in marriage, and introduced him at the court of Manúchihr the sovereign of Shirwán, whose title was Kháqán. In honor of this prince, he changed his former takhalluç *H*aqáyqy into Kháqány. He rose to high dignity and obtained the title of Amyr, noble; but he ill-requited the kindness of his benefactor; he and Abú-l'olà became jealous, and wrote biting satyres against each other. When Kháqány was tired of the life of a courtier he solicited permission to retire, and when it was refused he fled to Baylaqán, but was arrested by the agents of the Kháqán, brought back to Shirwán and cast into prison. After some months, he was released and went on a pilgrimage to Makkah, on the road he composed his most celebrated poem the Tohfat al'iráqayn. He died at Tabryz in 582 or in 595, and is buried at Surkháb, and at his side rest the poets Tzahyr Faryáby and Sháhfúr Ashhary Nayshápúry, (Ouseley, Pers. poets, p. 157; Hammer Schöne Redek. Pers. p. 125: Jámy Nafah. No. 569; Mohammad 'awfy, fol. 124; Taqyy Káshy, No. 23; Dawlat-sháh 2, 14; Mirät alkhiyál, p. 38; A'tishkadah, p. 53; Khizánah 'ámirah).

His Dywán consists of Qaçydahs, and Qit'ahs, some are mystical, but most of them are panegyrics on the Kháqán, the Átábuk Nuçrat aldyn Qizilarslán, Sultán Ghiyáth aldyn Mohammad b. Mas'úd b. Malik-sháh, king Sayf aldyn Daráy of Darband, &c. at the end are about 120 Rubá'ys.

(324) رباعیات عمر خیام (P.)

The Rubá'ys of 'omar Khayyám of Nayshápúr. He was originally a tent-maker and hence his takhalluç. Among his school fellows were *H*asan Çabbágh, and a youth who subsequently filled the post of Wazyr to Malik-sháh under the title of Nitzám almulk *T*úsy. After he had risen to his high office he invited 'omar to come to court, and when he declined, he allowed him annually the handsome income of 2,022 mithqáls from the Nayshápúr treasury. Baron Hammer-Purgstall Gesch. d. Schönen Redek. Pers. p. 80 in his valuable remarks on this poet says, that he was a free-thinker and a great opponent of Çúfism. He died in 517 (Khoshgú I. No 38; A'tishkadah, p. 185).

After a short introduction in prose by a later author the Rubá'ys begin:

(326) ديوان امير خسرو (P.)

The Dywán of Yamyn aldyn Abú-l-*Ha*san, who is known by the name of Myr Khosraw. He is the greatest poet among the Musalmans of India. His father Sayf aldyn Ma*h*múd was one of the chiefs of the tribe of Láchyn, which lives in the Hazárah near Balkh. He came to India, and became one of the nobles (military leaders) of the empire. He settled at Patyálah (Mümi-nábád), where Khosraw was born in 651. He was only nine years of age when he lost his father, who fell in a fight against the idolators. His brother 'izz aldyn 'alyy-sháh succeeded to the post of his father, and the young Myr Khosraw was educated by his maternal grandfather 'imád almulk, who was a man of great importance, and attained the age of one hundred and thirteen years.

When he was grown up he entered with his friend *Ha*san the service of prince Mo*h*ammad Sul*t*án Khán, a son of Ghiyáth aldyn Balban, who was then governor of Multán, he was the keeper of the Qorân مصحفدار and Hasan keeper of the inkstand دواتدار. After the death of his patron he came to Dilly, and entered the service of Amyr 'alyy, and subsequently he was admitted to the court of the emperor Jalál aldyn Khiljy. He rose to great importance particularly under Ghiyáth aldyn Toghlaq-sháh whom he accompanied in his march to Bengal, and to whom he dedicated his Toghlaq-námah. Whilst the king was staying at Lokhnawty, the news of the demise of Nitzám aldyn reached the royal camp. Khosraw had been introduced to this saint by his father when only eight years of age, and he became one of his most distinguished disciples and warmest admirers, on hearing of his death he hastened back to Dilly, dressed in deep mourning, gave up the royal service, gave all he had to the poor and took up his abode at the tomb of the saint. He died six months after him in the night, from Thursday to Friday, the 29th of Dzú-lqa'dah, 725. His tomb is close to that of Nitzám aldyn, in one of the most beautiful and interesting spots near Dilly. Dawlat sháh places his death in 715, as his authority has misled many learned men as Hammer, Garcin de Tassy, Dozy, &c. I give here the chronogram on his death which is engraved over his tomb شکر مقال طوطي; another chronogram is عدیم المثل. The Çúfies celebrate his wedding (death) on the 18th Raby' II. this date is commemorated in the following verse of the Ádáb altálibyn:

ربیع دوم هژده در ابر رفت آن مه
زمانه چون شمار بیست داد پنج مقتدرا

It is said by Adzory apud Dawlat-sháh, that Sa'dy, for whom Khosraw entertained the highest respect, came in his old age to India and thus an opportunity was afforded Khosraw of making his personal acquaintance. He left between four and five hundred thousand verses, in some of them he has the takhalluç of Sulṭány (Firishtah II. p. 754; Safynat alawliyá No. 117; Ouseley, Pers. Poets, p. 146).

Khoshgú gives the following details regarding his works: مشهور است که نود و نه کتاب تصنیف کرده اما آنچه از مثنویات متداول است این تفصیل دارد خمسهٔ که مطلع انوار و لیلي مجنون و خسرو شیرین و هشت بهشت و آئینه سکندري هرده هزار بیت وعشقیه چهار هزار بیت و قران السعدین پنجهزار بیت و نه سپهر چهار هزار بیت و تغلق نامه ناتمام سه هزار بیت و تعداد دیوان غزل وغیره مشخص نیست و در نثر اعجاز خسروي و تاریخ دهلي و خزاین الفتوح و مناقب هند و چند رساله دیگر در علم اسیقا (؟) و موسیقي ورساله خالق باري را هم بدو منسوب دارند که اطفال هندوستانیان بعد شناخت حروف تهجي آنرا میخوانند • و ان بتقریب گفته و انچه در هندي زبان کارستانها کرده هیچ شاعریرا دست نداده چنانکه اشعار مطایبه درمیان شادیها بهندوستان رایج است ولطایف وظرایف آن غازه قبول وشهرت بر رو دارد

The Conjunction of the two lucky Planets (Venus and Jupiter) by Amyr Khosraw. It is a historical poem, the heroes are Náçir aldyn and Mo'izz aldyn, but the facts are so much clad in allegories, that the only historical value of the book is, that it offers us a specimen of the singular taste of the age in which it was composed.

(331) كليات خواجو كرماني (P.)

Complete (minor) works of Khwájú Kirmány. He was born on the 20th of Dzú-l*h*ajj, 689. His name was Abú l'a*t*â Kamál aldyn Ma*h*múd b. 'alyy Murshidy. He was of a distinguished family, and spent much of his time in travelling. In one of his journeys he made the acquaintance of the distinguished Çúfy 'alâ aldawlah Samnány, the author of the مفتاح and several other works on mysticism (see p. 81 supra) and became his disciple. He remained with him six years in Çúfyábád at Samnán, and devoted himself diligently to the study of mysticism. After that he returned to Kirmán and being unable to find a livelihood, he proceeded first to Ispahán and then to Shyráz where he found a liberal supporter in Abú Isháq the ruler of that town. In 744 he collected his poems, but continued his literary activity till 745, he says:

شد بتاریخ هفت صد و چل و چار کامد این نقش آذري چو نگار

He died at Shyráz in 745, or according to Ázád in 753, and according to Khoshgú (who probably copied incorrectly the blunder of Dawlat-sháh, who places his death in 742) in 762.

Taqyy Káshy says that all his poetical works which he had seen, contained 20,000 verses; Dawlat-sháh says, his Dywán alone comprises 20,000 verses, whereas Khoshgú thinks it contains half of that number. He left five Mathnawies in imitation of the Khamsah of Nitzámy. (Habyb alsiyar III. p. 580; Dawlat-sháh 4, 19; Taqyy Káshy 73, see also Erdmann in the Ztschft für d. K. d. Morgl. II. 205).

Contents: Qaçydahs in praise of the Imáms, Sayf aldyn Bákharzy, Amyn aldyn Kázorúny, Sultán Motzaffar Mas'úd Sháh, &c. 42 pp. of 56 bayts; Ghazals not alphabetically arranged, 60 pp. Beginning of Qaçydahs:

The following are some of the headings: توحید و نعت و مناقب • حقیقه و نصیحة • القسم و ما یقسم به • مدایح اوصاف و تشبیهات • الصباح والرواح • محاربه و مصالحه • معاشرة • مکاتبات ومراسلات • المحبة والوفا •

"Here ends the Dywán of Kihtary which was composed by Shaykh Asad Allah, writer of Wazyr Khán, the police officer of the district of Sahrand; it was copied on the 29th of Çafar, 1109." If the person who wrote this sentence understood the meaning of the word تصنیف Shaykh Asad Allah is the name of the poet, but Arabic words are used so loosely in India that it is likely that it is the name of the copyist.

Usages of Love, being the story of Bismil, by Munshiy Lachmy Naráyan, a Khatry. His ancestors were of Kanjawah near Láhór, and his grandfather settled under 'álamgyr at Dilly. He was a pupil of Árzú and resided first at Awrangábád and subsequently at Bareily, and flourished under Aḥmad Sháh and Áçaf aldawlah who died in 1212. I have been told that Lachmy Naráyan died at Dilly about twenty-five years ago.

(336) دستور همت (P.)

The Story of Kámrúp, in Persian verses by Himmat Khán Láyiq, a son of Islám Khán. Moḥammad Yúsof says that he was the father of Islám Khán and the son of the Khánejahán Láyiq. According to another statement the poet's name was Moḥammad 'áshiq and his takhalluç Himmat. The former account is borne out by several verses in the Dywán.

بیا لایق سخن را مختصر کن ز دل اندیشهٔ دیگر بدر کن

Towards the end he says:

بحمد الله که این نظم دلارام گرفت از فکر لایق رنگ انجام
خطابش مطلع دیوان همت فروغ شمسه دیوان همت
دل و چشم طمع از خوان او پر جهان خود همت خان بهادر

Yet it is probable that the Mathnawy is the production of Moḥammad 'áshiq, and that he had besides the takhalluç of Himmat also that of Láyiq, for this poet was in the service of Himmat Khán (see Yúsof Khán's Tadzkirah and p. 113 suprà) to whom the poem is dedicated.

The date 1096 and name of the composition are mentioned in the following verses:

چو سال ختم کردم انتخابش بهمت خان موافق شد حسابش
دران ساعت که میکردم تماشش خرد دستور همت گفت نامش

The Dywán of Wajyh aldyn 'abd Allah Lisány of Shyráz, a son of Myr Moḥammad Mushk-farúsh. He spent the greater part of his life at Tabryz, but for some time he resided at Baghdád and after that city had been taken by Sháh Ismá'yl, he proceeded to Hamadán where he was supported by Najm aldyn II. After his death he had to endure great hardship in the fortress of Shádmán, at length however he went to Herát and subsequently to Káshán, and after an absence of fourteen years he came back to Tabryz where he died. Khoshgú places his death in 991, but it probably took place several years earlier. He left about 40,000 bayts.

This copy contains only Ghazals.

The Dywán of Moḥammad Shyryn Maghriby. He was a native of Náyyn and a disciple of Shaykh Ismá'yl Sysy who belonged to the flock of Shaykh Núr aldyn 'abd al-Raḥmán Isfaráyiny. The reason why he chose the takhalluç of Maghriby, the man of the west, is that on a journey to the Maghrib (Northern Africa) he received the garb of a Darwysh from a disciple of Moḥyy aldyn

'araby. He was a friend of Kamál Khojandy, and li[illegible] him a profound Çúfy. It is said that jealousy for royal favour dissolved the friendship of these two holy men (see Ouseley Pers. Poets, p. 106). He is the author of Arabic glosses حاشیه on the Fotú*h*át and of the جام جهانما. He died at Tabryz, where he had spent the greater part of his life, in 809, and is buried in Surkhán. Having been given to the most disgusting vices during his lifetime, he is considered as a saint, and his tomb is a place of pilgrimage. (Jámy, *Naf*ah. No. 574 ; *H*abyb alsiyar III. fol. 695; Khoshgú II. No. 277; Taqyy Káshy, No. 100).

(339) گلشن راز تصنیف محمود شبشتري (P.)

The Rose Garden of Mysteries, by Najm aldyn (this is the honorific name of the poet according to the preface of the commentary, but in the postcript he is called Sa'd aldyn, and in one copy Sa'd b. Ma*h*múd) Ma*h*múd Jabishtary or Shabishtary Tabryzy. He died in his native town in 720 and left among other prose works a رساله شاهد which treats on love, and which he dedicated to Shaykh Ibráhym a relation of Ismá'yl Sysy for whom he entertained an admiration bordering on madness (Khoshgú II. No. 223). He wrote this poem in 717. It is an answer in 976 verses to seventeen metaphysical questions which were proposed by Amyr Sayyid *H*osayny (see p. 430 suprà) and contains a very useful outline of the speculations of the Çúfies.

(346) كليات ملك قمي (P.)

Works of Malik Qommy. He was born and brought up at Qomm, and was in great favor with the Qizilbáshes and other great men of Persia. Yet for some unexplained reason, he left his native country and came to A*h*madnagar in India where he met the Khán Khánán. This great patron of poets gave him the most kind reception and supported him. After some time Malik determined to go to Makkah. At Byjápúr he fell in with Tzohúry, who married his daughter and introduced him to Ibráhym 'ádilsháh. He composed a poem of 9000 verses for his patron and called it گلزار ابراهيم. According to Á*z*ád the name of the book is نورس. The king made him a present for it of 90,000 Láries. At present, 1024, says the author of the Máthire Rah, from whom the above details are derived, he lives in retirement and indigence. (349) دیوان منوچهري شصت گله (P.)

The Dywán of Manúchihry, who had the sobriquet of Shaçt-gallah. His name was *H*akym Najm aldyn A*h*mad b. Ya'qúb b. A*h*mad Manúchihry. He informs us in his poems that he is a native of Damághán, and not of Balkh as Dawlat-sháh erroneously states. He was a pupil of Abú-lfaraj Sinjary, and lived at the court of Ma*h*múd of Ghaznah, and of his two sons Mas'úd and Mo*h*ammad. The latter prince raised him to the rank of a Tarkhán. He acquired much wealth, and hence his sobriquet of Shaçt-gallah, i. e. sixty flocks of sheep. Towards the end of his life he devoted himself to ascetic exercises under the guidance of Abú-lma'áliy 'abd almalik b. Mo*h*ammad Jowayny. He died in 483.

The Dywán consists almost exclusively of short Qaçydahs in praise of the three princes at whose court he lived. Beginning

(353) دیوان مسعود (P.)

The Dywán of Khwájah Mas'úd b. Sa'd b. Salmán who died in 525, according to a Biyádh of the As. Soc. No. 931, his death happened in 420 (for 520 ?) (see p. 407 suprà). He usually writes "Bandah" instead of his name or takhalluç, but in one instance he gives us his whole name:

شکر منظومرا نخواهي یافت تو چو مسعود سعد سلماني

I have not succeeded in finding the verses quoted by Dawlat-sháh in this Dywán, but the Rubá'y which according to Khóshgú, he sent from his prison to the Sulṭán is in it, it runs:

در بند تو ای شاه ملکشه باید تا بند تو پائي تاجداري شاید
انکس که ز پشت سعد سلمان زاید گر زهر بود ملک ترا نگزاید

Khóshgú has in addition to this another Mas'úd, whom he calls Mas'úd Rázy and of whom he says that he was at the court of Sulṭán Mas'úd.

Contents: Qaçydahs about 500 pp. of 21 bayts mostly in praise of Sulṭán Mas'úd, Ibráhym and Bahrám Sháh, at the end are a few Ghazals and Rubá'ys and Mokhammas.

From Iláhy (see p. 84 suprà) it would appear that he was of Má-warà-lnahr but 'abd al-*H*aqq Dihlawy Akhbár alakhyár, p. 375 gives us a different statement. He was according to this author a relation of Sultán Fyrúz of Dilly and had originally the name of Shyr Khán; disgusted with the vanities of this world, he became a disciple of Shaykh Rokn aldyn b. Shiháb aldyn Imám (Khóshgú alters Shiháb aldyn into Báhâ aldyn) one of the most profound Çúfies of the school of Chishty. He wrote several works on Mysticism, one is entitled تمهيدات and is on the plan of the تمهيدات عين القضاة همداني and another one has the title of مرأة العارفين. After his death he was buried in the tomb of his spiritual guide in the Ládú Saráy near Nitzám aldyn's mausoleum, five miles south of Dilly. The date of his demise is not known, but he probably flourished towards the end of the eighth century. Wálih says that he was a disciple of Chirágh Dilly.

(360) مثنوي مولوي رومي (P.)

The celebrated mystical poem of Jalál aldyn Mo*h*ammad who is generally known by the name of Mawlawy Rúm or Rúmy in India, and by the name of Jalál aldyn Rúmy in Europe. Çúfy authors call him usually Mawlawy Ma'nawy. It is said that he used Mawlawy, Mawláná, Khámúsh and Shams as his takhalluç. He was born at Balkh on the 6th of Raby' I. 604, or 592. His father Bahâ aldyn was a man of good family, and of great learning and piety, and he had a very numerous circle of disciples. It is said that the ruler of Balkh, jealous of his influence with the public did everything to annoy him. At length Bahâ aldyn thought it best to leave Balkh, he proceeded with his family on a pilgrimage to Makkah, and remained on his return at Iconium the capital of that branch of the Seljúq dynasty which ruled over Rúm and hence our poet is called Rúmy. The Seljúq princes were great patrons of learning, and both Bahâ aldyn and his promising son rose soon to importance and celebrity at Iconium. After the death of his father which happened in 631, Jalál aldyn succeeded him as the spiritual guide of his flock which soon increased by the accession of four hundred new disciples. Among the friends of Jalál aldyn were men like Çaláh aldyn Zarkúb, and Cheleby *Ho*sám aldyn, who have immortalized themselves by their attainments in mystical philosophy. But the friend to whom he was most attached, and to whom almost all his Ghazals are addressed, was Shams Tabryz, a most disgusting cynic. Jalál aldyn, according to Jámy, died at sunset on the 5th Jumádà II. 672 or 671, at the age of sixty-nine years. A chronogram on his death is مرقده نور الله (Ouseley Pers. poets, p. 112).

This poem is called emphatically "the Mathnawy" or Mathnawy ma'nawy; it is divided into six cantos دفتر. The second canto was composed two years after the first in 662. Beginning

Mo*h*ammad b. al-*H*osayn Balkhy Rúmy, selections from the Mathnawy and gave them the title of لباب المعنوي فى انتخاب المثنوي. Subsequently at the request of some of his Çúfy friends, he made an abstract of these selections and arranged it into three chapters عين which respectively contain the verses on revealed religion جامع اطوار شريعت; asceticism مخزن اسرار طريقت and theosophy مطلع انوار حقيقت. A commentary on the Mathnawy by *H*osayn b. *H*asan who died according to *H*ájy Khal. No. 11,370, in 840. The author informs us that he had from childhood a predilection for this poem, and that at the request of his friends he wrote a work كنوز الحقائق في رموز الدقايق which it seems contains discourses on the Mathnawy, and, on their continued solicitations, he at length proceeded to write this commentary, of which he commenced the second book in 834. It is preceded by a preliminary discourse divided into ten chapters مقاله, the first of which contains biographies of celebrated Çúfies beginning with 'alyy, and the second an explanation of some of their technical terms, in this chapter he follows Qoshayry. This is rather an analysis of the Mathnawy than a commentary. The text is introduced by the word متن or م. Beginning Complete works of Shams Tabryz. This is the name by which in India the collection of minor poems of Jalál aldyn Rúmy is generally known, because instead of inserting his own takhalluç in the concluding verses of each Ghazal, the poet uses the name of this eccentric saint. Shams Tabryz died according to Jámy, Nafahát, in 645, some authors place his death more correctly in 660.

(384) رساله جلالیه تصنیف ملا محتشم (P.)

A Dywán of 64 Ghazals by Mohtashim, which has the name Jalályyah became the letters of "Jalál" contain the number 64. The Ghazals are mostly expressions of friendship called forth by events in the poet's intercourse with his friends. At the request of his friend *H*isáby, who commenced in 980 to compile a Tadzkirah (see p. 23 suprà) he put at the head of every Ghazal a few lines in prose, in which the occasion is mentioned on which it was written together with æsthetical remarks. The author compiled the Dywán in 997. The preface begins:

The first Ghazal begins: نیست لرزان از هوا پر بر سر شاطر جلال
Móty Mahall, correct copy written in 1040.

(385) ديوان محيي (P.)

The Dywán of Moḥyy. According to the copyist the author of these poems is Shaykh 'abd al-Qádir Gylány, whose takhalluç was Moḥyy and who was born in 471 and died in 561 (see chapter on Çúfism). I much doubt the correctness of this statement.

Contents: Ghazals, 46 pp. of 30 bayts, another copy 45 pp. 38 bayts. Beginning

(387) كليات معزي (P.)

Complete works of Abú Bakr Moḥammad Mo'izzy of Samarqand; according to Dawlat-sháh he derived his origin from Nasá, and according to Khóshgú from Nayshápúr, this however is probably a clerical error for Nasá. His father 'abd al-Malik Burhány was a poet and flourished under Alparslán, but did not come to celebrity. After his death Mo'izzy, who it would appear made himself first known as a poet under the successors of Maḥmúd of Ghaznah, chose the military profession, and he rose under Sulṭán Jalál aldyn Malikshâh to a command which gave him a position at court. One evening the king with his courtiers was looking out for the new moon, the appearance of which was to terminate the fast of Ramadhán. The king observed it first, and Mo'izzy made on the spot so elegant a Rubá'y that he conferred the title of king of poets upon him. In this capacity he had to pay the stipends and rewards of merit to four hundred poets who adorned the court of this monarch. Subsequently he was sent on an embassy to Rúm (Iconium) and he brought back forty camels' loads of precious goods to Ispahán. His end was tragical, "it is said," relates Moḥammad 'awfy, "that one day Sinjar, the successor of Malik-shâh, was practising archery in his camp, and a missing arrow pierced the body of Mo'izzy, who was sitting in his tent." This happened in 480 according to a note in an old album (As. Soc. No. 931). Sanáy wrote an elegy on his death. Taqyy Káshy however thinks that he lived to the time of the Khwárezmshâhians, and places his death in 542. This author has seen more than 15,000 verses of his.

Contents: Qaçydahs most of them in praise of Abú-l-Fatḥ Moḥammad Malikshâh, Sinjar, the Atábuk Nitzám almulk Abú 'alyy Ḥasan b. 'alyy b. Isḥáq, and his son Fakhr almulk Moḥammad Qiwán aldyn, &c. about 120 Rubá'ys. Beginning Subsequently he proceeded to Tabryz and became a court poet of the A'tábuks. At the instigation of his enemies who wished to remove him from the court, he was sent to Ispahán to collect the revenue. The learned men of that city did first homage to his talents but subsequently they induced Jamál aldyn 'abd al-Razzáq and Sharaf aldyn Shufurdah to compose satyres against him, to which he wrote smart replies. He died in 594 or according to Wálih in 568 (Dawlat-sháh, 2, 16; Taqyy Káshy, No. 28; A'tishkadah, p. 41; Khoshgú, No. 123).

The Dywán of Molham. The verses quoted in Tadzkirahs of Çálih Bég Molham (see p. 114 suprà) are not found in the Dywán, yet it is probable that he is the author of it. (410) دیوان نجیب الدین فارسي (P.)

The Dywán of Najyb aldyn of Fárs. I have not satisfactorily ascertained whether this author is identical with Najyb aldyn Churbádqány but it is very probable. The poet came to celebrity towards the end of the Seljúq dynasty and resided during the reign of the Khwárezm-sháhians mostly at Baghdád, he died towards the end of this dynasty, which ceased to reign in 628. According to my copy of Taqyy Káshy his death took place in 665. This is probably a clerical error for 625 or 635. Taqyy has seen about 2000 verses of his or less.

The Dywán of Nargisy. His name was according to his own statement, apud Sámiy, No. 233, Abú-l-Makárim Nizár aldyn Qudrat Allah, but in his native town he was familiarly called Myrak. It is asserted that he was of Herát. This is an error, he was of Abhar in the 'iráq, but spent the greater part of his life at Herát, where he filled for some time the office of police officer, Moḥtasib. Towards the end of his career he went to Qandahár, and died there towards the end of the year 938, at the age of sixty. Taqyy Káshy has seen about 2000 verses of his.

(417) كليات نظيري (P.)

Complete poetical works of Moḥammad *Ḥ*osayn Natzyry of Nayshápúr. When he had come to celebrity in Khorásán he went to Káshán, where he had several poetical contests with Fahmy, *Ḥ*átim, Maqçúd Khórdah, Shujá' and Ridháyiy. When he felt himself sufficiently strong he endeavoured to turn his poetical talents to account, and came to India where he found a patron in the Khánkhánán. In 1012 he made the pilgrimage to Makkah, after his return he paid a visit to his patron and then settled at A*ḥ*madábád, having accumulated sufficient wealth to be able to live in affluence, and he died in that city in 1022 or 1023.

(419) ديوان نعمت الله ولي (P.)

The Dywán of Sayyid Ni'mat Allah Walyy, i. e. the saint, a son of 'alyy. He was of Kirmán, but spent part of his life at Samarqand. He not only was himself a holy man having performed forty times the chillá—a fast or abstinence from animal food and from pleasures for forty days—but he is the founder of a prolific family of saints, who carried on their trade with great success for several centuries, they intermarried with the royal family of Persia and amassed immense fortunes (see Haft Iqlym, p. 44 MS. As. Soc.) He stood in high favour with Sháhrokh. He once boasted that he considered it perfectly proper to eat delicacies, because as he was a saint, he was sure that Providence would guard him against the enjoyment of unlawful things. The king made an experiment and ordered his cook to seize a lamb from a widow, prepare it and send it to Ni'mat Allah. He enjoyed it much, and after the repast the king told him triumphantly that it had been taken away by force from a widow. She being sent for by Sháhrokh at the request of the saint, declared that her son was absent from home and caused her great anxiety, and having heard that a man of great sanctity had arrived from Kirmán (meaning Ni'mat Allah) she vowed to offer him this lamb, but in the mean while it was forcibly taken away from her. She demanded justice from the king, in order that she might be able to carry out her intention.

Ni'mat Allah died in 827 and left works on several subjects more particularly on Çúfism. He must be distinguished from Ni'mat Allah of Narnawl in India, who was equally a saint and a poet, and died in 1077.

The Qaçydahs of Nitzám. Though I have not ascertained the identity by comparing the quotations, we may take it for granted that the author of these Qaçydahs is Nitzám of Astrábád, who was an extremely pious man and died in 921, leaving besides this Dywán a Mathnawy which has the title بلقیس وسلیمان (Sámy No. 214).

(422) پنج گنج يعني خمسهٔ نظامي (P.)

The five Treasures or the five romantic poems of Nitzámy of Ganjah, a brother of Qiwámy Moṭarrizy. He possessed considerable learning and a strong sound sense, his poetical talents were of the highest order, and had they not been perverted by the bad taste of the times in which he lived, and of the nation to which he belonged, he would be one of the greatest poets that ever lived. We know little of his life, except that he was a very pious man and a disciple of Akhy Farrokh Zánjány, and that he retired towards the end of his life from the world. As much is related of every Persian poet and Çúfy. He himself boasts that he did not court princes, but his panegyrics gave him the lie. He was sixty-three years and a half of age in 599, when he completed the second part of the Sikandar-námah, and died in 606 or 602. Dorn thinks that the poem was completed after his death by some one else.

3. لیلي و مجنون, the Loves of Laylà and Majnún, a Bedouin romance, which was first sung by Arabic poets (see Kitáb alaghániy); 93 pp. composed in 592. I read the last verse which contains the date as follows, though this reading is confirmed by no copy.

4. هفت پیکر, the Seven Forms, also called قصهٔ بهرام گور the story of Bahrámgúr, composed in 593.

Bg. ای جهان بود دیدهٔ خویش از تو هیچ بودن نبود پیش از تو

5. شرفنامه سکندري, the Sikandar-námah, or سکندر نامه The poet divided it into three parts, describing the career of Alexander as a king, as a philosopher, and as a prophet.

نخستین در بادشاهي زنم دم از کارکشور کشائي زنم

زحکمت برآرایم آنگه سخن کنم تازه تاریخهای کهن

به پیغمبري کوبم انگه درش که خواندهٔ خدا نیز پیغامبرش

The first part is best known, it is either simply called the Sikandar-námah or the Sikandar-námahë Barry, but the proper title is اقبالنامه سکندري or according to some شرفنامه سکندري. It was composed in 597, and according to Jámy, Nafáhat No. 570, in 592. 140 pp.

Beginning خدایا جهان پاد شاهي تراست

The second and third parts form but one poem, which has the title of خردنامه سکندري but is usually called in India, Sikandar-námahë Bahry. It was composed in 599, and has about 3000 verses.

همان بردهم روز بود از ایار نبود نه گذشته زپانصد شمار

Beginning خرد هرکجا گنجی آرد پدید

Complete MS. copies of the Khamsah are rare, (Móty Maḥall two fine copies; As. Soc. No. 90; College of Fort Willian, a fine copy) but copies of it without the Khirad-námah are very frequent, still more frequent are copies of the first part of the Sikandar-námah. The Khamsah without the Khirad-námah has been lithographed at Bombay, small folio 1265, full of the grossest mistakes; the first half of the first part of the Sikandar-námah has been printed at Calcutta, 1810, reprinted (lith.) 1818; the whole has been edited at Calcutta in 1810, 1835, 1263, 1852; the first half of the Khirad-námah was edited by Dr. A. Sprenger, Calcutta, 1852, the second half is in the press; the Makhzan alasrár has been edited by Bland, London, 1844: Khosraw Shyryn lithographed s. a. et l. (Bombay?) 275 pp. A good MS. copy of this poem and of Laylà Majnún is in the As. Soc. No. 257. In the same collection No. 345 is a good copy of the Makhzan alasrár, and No. 1490 of the first part of the Sikandar-námah with glosses. It appears from Professor Fleischer's note in the Zeitsch. d. d. morgl. Gesellsch. VII. 412, that according to most MSS. Sharaf-námah is the title of the first and Iqbál-námah of the second part of the Sikandar-námah, this is borne out by Nos. 425, 427 infrà.

(425) قواعد ملي شيري تصنيف محي الدين نظام (P.)

A commentary on the Sharaf-námah by Mo*h*yy aldyn (a son of) Nitzám, a disciple of Sháh Jahángyr who died in 948. The author says that he first studied Persian literature and metric under 'ayn alqodhát Hamadány at Hamadán (this 'ayn olqodhát must be different from the one mentioned by Jámy Nafahát No. 455), and after his death under Shaykh Mo*h*ammad Lád, and subsequently under Shaykh Mo*h*addith, who it seems used to lecture on the works of Nitzámy. In 956 it occurred to him that it would be useful if he was to collect his notes on the Sharaf-námah and work them up into a commentary on it, he was encouraged in his labour by a son of 'alyy Shyr, and hence the title of the work. This commentary forms the basis of the glosses to the lithographed Lucnow edition of the Sikandar-námah, 1263 and 1266, 8vo. 311 pp. 23 bayts, also of the notes of Badr 'alyy and Myr *H*osayn in the Calcutta edition, 1812, 4to. and of the somewhat fuller commentary of the Calcutta edition of 1253, reprinted 1260 = 1844, lithographed at Bombay with three other works on the margin, 1261 folio, the commentaries are all essentially identical.

(429) دیوان نزاري (P.)

The Dywán of *H*akym Nizáry of Qóhistán. He was skilled in medicine, and a man of talents, but given to gaieties and pleasure, particularly to wine. He travelled much and it is supposed he was a disciple of Moçtafá-lidynillah Nizár and that he chose his takhalluç in his honour, others say that he chose it because he was a thin man, نزار meaning thin in Persian. At all events he is suspected of having been a free-thinker, though it is allowed that his poems contain deep Çúfy sentiments. On his travels he met Sa'dy and other distinguished men. Towards the end of his life he retired from the world and lived on agriculture, he died in 720 and left besides a Dywán, two Mathnawies, one is very witty and amusing, and has the title of دستور نامه, and the other has the title (?) رمز و ازهر, it has about 12,000 verses and begins:

He was one of the four hundred court poets of Sul*t*án Ma*h*múd and his successors, and rose to the office of king of poets. Authors who wished to be encouraged by the Sul*t*án had to submit their verses to 'onçory and he decided on their merits, he at the same time described the victories of the Ghaznawides in Qaçydahs, a description of poetry particularly well suited to the monotony of eastern music, and they were sung at the parties of the court. He died in 431 or 441 and left from 20 to 30,000 verses, among his poems was وامق و عذرا but Taqyy Káshy, who with great pains obtained a copy of the Dywán, containing about 5000 verses of Qaçydahs, thinks it has been lost. (446) ديوان قاسم انوار (P.)

The Dywán of Sayyid Mo'yn aldyn 'alyy Qásim Anwár, or Qásimy. He was born in a suburb of Tabryz, in 757, and devoted himself from his early age to the Çúfy doctrine. First Çadr aldyn of Ardebyl was his spiritual guide. Qásim used to live in a burial ground and performed four times the pilgrimage to Makkah, twice on foot, barefooted and almost in a state of nudity. Subsequently he joined the school of Awḥad aldyn

Kirmány, which is given to the wildest and most obscene revels, and he placed himself under the guidance of Çadr aldyn 'alyy Yamany. His doctrines as a Çúfy are not considered orthodox, yet he had immense success owing to his winning manners, the depth of his genius, and the great austerity of his life. When he resided at Herát in Khorásán the crowd of his disciples was so numerous and enthusiastic that Sháhrokh the ruler of that province was afraid of disturbances, and there is reason to suppose that the saint was implicated in a plot to assassinate him. Sháhrokh ordered him to leave the city, but he would have defied the royal command had not Baysanqor paid him a visit and persuaded him by his friendly advice to leave the city. He proceeded to Balkh and Samarqand, but subsequently returned to Herát at the request of the same sovereign who had expelled him. He died at Kharjard near Jám, in 837, and left besides this Dywán a Mathnawy and several Çúfy treatises in prose. (Bland, A Cent. of Pers. Ghazals.)

Complete poetical works of Hájy Mohammad Ján Qodsy. Some authors spell his name erroneously, Mohammad Khán. He was of the holy city of Mashhad; and for this reason he adopted the takhalluç of Qodsy. After he had performed the pilgrimage to Makkah, he came to India and was graciously received at the court of Sháhjahán, who, on one occasion, rewarded him for his panegyrics by filling seven times his mouth with precious jewels, and on another occasion by having him weighed up with gold and silver coins. The nobles of the court vied with the emperor in prodigality. Qodsy withdrew in 1069 from the world, and died a few years after. (Mirät alkhiyál p. 135 and suprà pp. 113, 90, 128, 116, 151). Ázád places his death in 1056, and gives a detailed list of rewards which he received from the emperor.

During his pilgrimage he became a disciple of Mo'yn *H*amawy an uncle of Shaykh Sa'd aldyn *H*amawy without however giving up worldly pursuits. It is said that he spent some time at the court of the Seljúq king Arslán Sháh b. Toghril Bég, and accompanied the embassy to Baghdád which he sent to the Khalyfah, to ask his daughter in marriage. He died in 1251 (see pp. 280 and 168 suprá) but according to a chronogram at the end of the poem, he composed it in 1119. I cannot reconcile these two contradictory statements. Chronogram

(464) دیوان رشید (P.)

The Dywân of Rashyd. This is the takhalluç of Rashyd aldyn Mohammad b. 'abd al-Jalyl 'omary who, on account of his diminutive size, had the nickname of Watwât, swallow. The patronymic 'omary indicates that he was descended from the Khalyfah 'omar b. al-Khattâb. He flourished under the Khwârezm-shâhian dynasty, his patrons being Atsyz b. Mohammad, and his son Ylarslân who heaped wealth and honors upon him. He died in Khwârezm in 578 at the advanced age of 97 years, and left besides a Dywân of about 15,000 verses, a translation of the hundred moral sentences of 'alyy and a collection with translation of as many sentences of Abú Bakr, 'omar and 'othmân, also a work on poetic, which has the title حدایق السحر or حدایق الشجر and several other works.

The Torch, a mystical Mathnawy, divided into three parts:

The name of the author, Rashyd, occurs in the introduction: یاد آرند از رشید دردمند. The copyist of the Lucnow MS. calls him Shaykh Rashyd, and the copyist of the Calcutta MS. thinks he is identical with Rashyd Waṭwáṭ, who is three hundred years older. The date 852 is in the conclusion of the poem, and it appears from it that it was written sixty years previous to the death of Rashyd Kázorúny who was a great Çúfy, and with whom we might else have identified him. Beginning

The Loves of Zybá and Nigár, in verse, by Hájy Mohammad Ridhá Ridháyiy who composed this poem, apparently in Sind, in 1053. The chronogram for this date is گل اندر باغ. He says that the Sindian name of Zybá is Panhún پنهون and that of Nigár Sysy سیسی but being anxious to avoid all Sindian words, he substituted Persian words in their stead: we might infer from this statement that the story was originally in the Sindian dialect.

(475) كليات سعدي (P.)

Complete poetical works of Shaykh Mosharraf (Sharaf?) aldyn Moçli*h* b. 'abd Allah Sa'dy of Shyráz, where he was born in 589. He chose the takhalluç of Sa'dy in honor of the Átábuk Sa'd aldyn b. Zangy, in whose service he originally was. Jámy says, Nafahát, No. 565, "he is one of the most distinguished Çúfies and lived for some time near the hermitage of the Shaykh Abú 'abd Allah Khafyf. He was well versed in most sciences and in belles-lettres. He spent much of his time in travelling and visited many countries, several times he made the pilgrimage on foot, and he went to Sómnát, entered the temple and broke the greatest idol which was in it. He made the acquaintance of many great Çúfy Shaykhs, such as Shiháb aldyn Sohrawardy, with whom he sailed once in the same vessel. It is related that he acted for a long time as water-carrier at Jerusalem and in Syria and gave to people water to drink." He died in 691 and is buried at Shyráz. (For a more detailed notice I refer to Ouseley's Pers. Poets, p. 5, and Ross Trans. Gul. preface).

The works of Sa'dy were collected and arranged by 'alyy b. Aḥmad b. Abú Bakr who was called Bystún in A. H. 726, and he improved the arrangement in A. H. 734.

Sir G. Ouseley, from whom the above list has been taken, does not mention the Pand-námah. It is in the Calcutta edition in folio 200, and begins کریما ببخشای برحال ما

A beautiful old copy of the complete works of Sa'dy is in the Móty Maḥall, probably written during the life time of Bystún. They have been edited in two folio volumes by Mr. Harington in Calcutta, 1791—95, (this edition is very rare in India); and they have been lithographed at Bombay, A. H. 1226, small folio 413 pp. reprinted (lithographed) Bombay, 1267, 4to. they have also been printed at Tabryz.

In the Faraḥ-bakhsh library, is a copy of the Gulistán, which cost 1500 Rupees, it is the most beautifully written book I have ever seen, and has the following postscript: در صبح چهارشنبه غرة شهرصفر از سال هزار و سي و چهار ازهجرت اتفاق شروع درين نسخه شريفه افتاد در روز چهارشنبه بست وششم شهر ربيع الثاني سال ديگر صورت اختتام پذيرفت بدست فقير حقير مذنب محتاج كمترين فقراى عالم حكيم ركن الدين مسعود المتخلص بالمسيح الشهير بحكيم ركنا غفر الله ذنوبه وستر الله عيوبه بحق محمد صلوت الله و سلامه عليه واله وسلم تسليما كثيرا كثيرا

In the first page is written professedly in the hand of the emperor Shâhjahán به تاريخ ۱۱ ماه جمادي الثاني سنه ۱۰۴۷ داخل كتابخانه اين خادم الفقرا شد.

The Gulistán has been repeatedly printed in Europe, at Constantinople, Bulak, Tabryz, Teherán, and upwards of a hundred times in India, the best editions are Calcutta, 1851, and Lucnow, (lith.) 1264 with excellent glosses. There are four or five lithographed Lucnow editions with interlinear Urdú translation and with marginal notes, as Mortadhawy press, s. a. (1264), and in two Lucnow editions the Bostán is printed on the margin. For Urdú translations of the Gulistán see infrà.

The Bostán has also frequently been separately edited; as "Bostán to which is added a compendious Commentary together with a Dictionary of such words as are hard of meaning, now first compiled expresaly for this edition by Moolvy Tumnuzuddy, (lithographed) Calcutta, 1828," 4to. 228 pp. I have not seen a separate vocabulary in this edition. Lithographed Lucnow, Moḥammady press, 1262, with notes by Sayyidy, 'abd al-Rahmán Khán, Bahár, &c., this edition and its numerous reprints, such as Moçtafáy press, 1265, 'alawy press, 1263, surpass most other editions in correctness; Hooghly, 1264, 8vo. clear and tolerably correct.

The Pand-námah, commonly called Karymá has also been frequently printed: in the Persian Moonshee; in the Persian Primer with an Urdú translation in verse by Matzhar 'alyy Khán Wilá, Calcutta, 1242, 1275 (sic for 1270), Chinsurah, s. a. (1845); lithographed Lucnow, 1268 (twice), 1264, &c. Beginning of Wilá's translation كرم سے ہميں اپنى بخش اى خدا The Pand-námah rendered in Rékhtah Mosaddas, Lucnow, lithographed by Mohammad-bakhsh, s. a. 8vo. 16 pp. Beginning صدا اي مومن پاكباز

The Ghazals have been printed Calcutta s. a. (in or before 1784) with the Baháre Dánish, 4to. 172 and 96 pp. and again 1811. For farther information regarding editions and translations of separate works of Sa'dy see Zenker, Bibl. Orient. p. 59 et seqq.

Móty Maḥall about 300 pp. In the Farah-bakhsh about 600 pp. of 21 lines is an imperfect copy of the commentary of Qabúl Moḥammad, the author of the Haft Qulzum, it has the title رشک بهشت. A complete copy in two volumes in folio was offered to me for sale at Lucnow. I took a notice of it, but lost it.

The present (1853) king of Dilly, I am told has compiled a commentary, in which he forces a mystical meaning on every story of the Gulistán, which would surprise Sa'dy. It has been lithographed at Dilly, but I have never seen it.

There is also an anonymous commentary in the Tópkhánah which begins— ای ز نام تو گلستان سخن جوش میخانهٔ مستان سخن

He early entered the service of Amyr Shaykh *H*asan Núyán and his beautiful and talented wife Dilshád Khátún, and instructed them and their son Sul*t*án Oways in poetry. He remained attached to this family his whole life, and had the mortification to see Oways carried to the grave. He was snatched away in 765 (see p. 72 suprá) in his best years. The Garden of Verity, by Hakym Abú-l-Majd Majdúd b. Ádam Sanáy of Ghaznah. He began his career by singing the praise of princes, subsequently he became one of the most profound Çúfy poets, being second in merit only to Jalál aldyn Rúmy. His spiritual guide was Yúsof Hamadány a pupil of Abú 'alyy Fármady (see Jámy Nafaḥát, No. 426). It is said that Sultán Bahrám Shâh offered him his sister in marriage, but he refused to marry her. He completed the *H*adyqah according to my copies in 535.

بانصد و سي و چار رفته زعام پانصد و سي و پنج گشت تمام

In one Lucnow copy instead of سي و چار is بست و پنج and in another بست و چار I have not noted any variant in the second miçra', probably there is none. According to Jámy Nafahát No. 563, Khájy Khalyfah (who probably followed Jámy) and Hammer W. Jahrb. Vol. 65, A. B. p. 1, he completed it in 524, and according to the first mentioned authority, and the author of the Haft Iqlym, he died the same year. Taqyy Káshy places his death in 545, and Dawlat-shâh and Hammer Gesch. d. Schönen Redek. Pers. p. 102 and Sir G. Ouseley, in 576. He left besides the *H*adyqah six smaller Mathnawies in the same measure, their names are, according to Bland, Siyar al'obbâd, *T*aryq alta*h*qyq, Kar-námah, 'ishq-námah, 'aql-námah; Khoshgú adds to these titles Kanz alromúz, he also left about 30,000 verses of Qaçydahs and minor poems.

The book is divided into ten chapters, some copies have a preface in prose.

Beginning of the poem اي درون پرور و برون آراي

Móty Ma*h*all, several copies, 520 pp. of 18 bayts; Asiatic Society, Nos. 944, 1426, 296, 1390, 595 (with notes), 1167 with a vocabulary; I have a splendid copy which was written in 874. The copies differ much from each other, but care has been taken at an early time to preserve the genuine text; Jamály Ardastány went on purpose to Ghaznah to obtain the autograph copy of Sanáy and brought it to his native country. Myrzá 'azyz Khán Kókah who had the title of Kháne A'tzam possessed a copy, which had been written in 617. 'abd al-Lat*y*f b. 'abd Allah 'abbásy (see p. 494 supra) borrowed in 1035 this copy, transcribed it and compared it with another ancient MS. marked the variants and made notes to it on the margin, in 1067 this corrected text was transcribed with great care, and this transcript is in my possession. In the Asiatic Society, No. 956, is a MS. lettered كليات سنائي it contains besides the *H*adyqah (with which as the leaves are transposed, some of the minor Mathnawies may be mixed up) Qaçydahs, Ghazals, Rúba'ye, &c. 552 pp. of 23 bayts. The Dywán of Sa'yd Khán Korayshy. He first collected his poems at the request of his patron Sulṭán Morád-bakhsh in 1063. A fair copy with farther additions was made in 1071. The author of the Hamyshah Bahár has two poets of the takhalluç of Sa'yd (see pp. 123 and 124) who it appears are identical, the quotations from both being found in this Dywán.

The poetical works of Sayf aldyn A'raj (the lame) of Isfaranj or Isfarah اسفرة in Transoxania. He was patronized by the Khwárezm-sháhians. Dawlat-sháh and Khoshgú think that his patron was Yl-arslán (reigned according to Abú-lfidá from 551 to 568) but the author of the Kholáçah states that he lived at the court of Takash the son of Yl-arslán and of his son Mo*h*ammad who is called Sinjar II. and reigned from 589 to 617. This statement is confirmed by the Dywán, most Qaçydahs are in praise of Sulṭán 'alâ aldyn Sinjar, and some are in praise of Ma*h*múd a younger brother of Takash. Towards the end of his life he gave himself up to ascetic exercises and took Sayf aldyn Bákharsy who died in 648 or 650 as his spiritual guide. The above dates fix the time when he flourished with sufficient accuracy, and on their

The Dywán of Shápúr. Wálih quotes some verses from this Dywán and says of the author, his name is Archásp, he had first the takhalluç of Firyby and on his return from Persia, he chose that of Shápúr. He is probably identical with Firyby, mentioned in page 407 suprà. He was a friend of Taqyy Awhady. In the Hamyshah Bahár (see p. 124 suprà) are also some verses quoted which are found in this Dywán, but the quotations which occur in the Átishkadah, p. 535 are not found in the Dywán.

(509) ديوان شرف الدين بوعلي قلندر (P.)

The Dywán of Sháh Shaykh Sharaf aldyn Abú 'alyy, who was familiarly called Qalandar. He was a native of the 'iráq, but came at the age of four years to Dilly to visit the tomb of Qotob aldyn and was brought up under the care of the holy men of that city as a saint. After he had been twenty years under their tuition, and after he had spent twenty years more in prayers and devotion, he went to see the world, and on his journeys he made the acquaintance of Shams Tabryz and Mawlawy Jalál aldyn Rúmy. After his return to India he lived in seclusion. He died in 724 and is buried at Pánypat (Khoshgú, I. N. 227). I believe the Makhdúm-zádahs, one of the four castes of Musalmans who inhabit Pánypat are descended from him. They do not condescend to intermarry with any other caste of Musalmans, their sole occupation was to attend at the tomb of their ancestor, and they were richly endowed for it by the emperors, some of their jagyrs or rent free lands they possess up to this day. 'abd al-*H*aqq Dihlawy, Akhbár alakhyár, p. 278, says that the حكم نامهٔ شيخ شرف‌الدين is ascribed to him, but he does not consider it genuine, but his مكتوبات or letters are considered genuine.

(528) كليات حكيم سوزني (P.)

Complete Poetical Works of Shams aldyn Mohammad b. 'alyy Súzany of Samarqand. Some say he was of Nasaf Gayhán. He claimed descent from Salmán Fárisy, a companion of the prophet. When he was a student at Bokhárá, he conceived so great a friendship for the apprentice of a needle-maker, that he himself learned that profession, and he therefore assumed the takhalluç of Súzany. He is considered the best humoristic poet of his age, but he was not the only one, it seems there were in those days several wits in Má-warà-lnahr as Lámi'y Bokháry; Shatranjy, Shams Khálah, and Jalály Tirmidzy who is nick-named Pusare (khare?) Khumkhánah. He used to write satyres against poets of a more serious turn of mind and to travesty their verses, but when he became older he repented, and chose first Abú-l-Mançúr Máżurydy as his spiritual guide, and subsequently he went to Balkh to profit by the spiritual advice of Sanáyiy against whom he had been writing doggerels, and he made the pilgrimage with him to Makkah. He died in 569. Besides his humoristic compositions he left Qaçydahs in praise of God. Taqyy Káshy has seen 10,000 verses of his (Moḥammad 'awfy c. 10; Dawlatsháh 2,10; Taqyy Káshy No. 16).

Last verse شب و روز باهم بشادي و کام کشیدند پس بادهٔ لعل فام

As. Soc. No. 17, 674 pp. folio, written in a clear old hand and embellished with pictures. It appear to me that this is the second volume of this poem. The poet says in the seventh verse.

یکی داستانی کنون از تمور بگویم که افتد در جان تو شور

The first half of the poem contains the story of Tamúr. In folio 145th verse of the book is the passage from the Sháh-námah with which the Sám-námah described by Dr. Mohl begins, viz.:

پس آنگه یکی هفته بگذاشتند همه ماتم وسوگ او داشتند

It is very likely that the first part is sometimes considered as a separate work.

I am unable to promote his view, having not succeeded in finding his name mentioned in the poem, but he gives us the date, 1019, of the composition.
